Simmons Cannot Bob Up Again, Atty. Says

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 13—Paul S. Etheridge, Imperial Klonsel of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, in a statement declared that the contract in which W. J. Simmons, Imperial Emperor, relinquished all rights and interest in the order was "so tight, he, Simmons, cannot bob up again," according to the Atlanta Constitution today.

The statement followed the purported issuance of a statement by Simmons in Jacksonville, which quoted him as denying he had "sold out" for $145,500, and declaring he has merely severed relations with the organization and has discontinued his royalty of $1,000 per month.

Attorney Etheridge, according to the Constitution, announced under the agreement all litigation pending between Simmons and Imperial headquarters would be terminated. This includes a libel suit filed by Imperial Wizard H. E. Evans against Simmons for $150,000, Mr. Ethridge stated.

The settlement contract, it was stated, did not interfere with the women's organization known as the Kamelia, but prohibited Simmons from participation in any organization or movement which antonogized, opposed or rivaled the Klan.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Dixon to Entertain Illinois Farmers

Taft, Prof. Waters and Howard Are Institute Headliners

The evening sessions of the State Farmers' Institute at Dixon, February 19, 20 and 21 present some outstanding features in speaking talent. The programs at these sessions will attract state-wide attention and are sure to prove of unusual interest and value to all who attend the big convention.

Lorado Taft, American sculptor and art authority, world famous as the creator of some of America's most wonderful statuary, is headliner for the evening of Tuesday, February 19. He will speak on "The Beauties of Illinois," and will present some of the art and nature wonders of our state through the eyes of artistic discernment, calculated to stimulate appreciation of artistic values that now many of us pass by unrecognized. Mr. Taft has long been a favorite on the Lyceum and Chautauqua courses, and his address alone at the Farmers' Institute at Dixon will be worth the trip to the State Institute. He is an easy and fluent speaker, full of spontaneity, alive with humor, interesting his audiences as he carries them through an evening of the highest educational value.

Among other headliners at the Institute are Dr. H. J. Waters, Managing Editor of the Weekly Kansas City Star. Dr. Waters knows his farming and his farmers from extensive contact through the Missouri Agricultural College where he was Dean of Agriculture for fourteen years, and a long term as President of the Kansas Agricultural College at Manhattan. As a member of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture, of the State Council of Defense and Federal Food Administration, and as Commissioner of the United States and Philippine governments to report on the agricultural and educational developments of the Islands, Dr. Waters has met the farm problems from a world viewpoint. His subject is, "The Problems of Tomorrow."

No farmer knows farming and farmers better, and none have led them better than James R. Howard, for three terms president of the American Farm Bureau Federation and now director of the National Transportation Institute. He will address the State Institute during the closing day of the Dixon meeting, which is Feb. 21, on the subject, "The Swinging Pendulum." Jim Howard is a student of agricultural conditions from the viewpoint of the farmer and the citizen and has a vital message for those who wonder just what is in store for the next generation of American farmers. Present conditions will be intelligently discussed and analyzed by this well known authority. Cooperative marketing, immigration and other big questions now confronting the farmer will be covered in Mr. Howard's address. It will be one of the outstanding features of the Dixon meeting.

Practical farmers and scientific men share the program throughout the three days and every session is chuck ful of information and inspiration towards better farming and better farm homes.

Round trip rates of fare and one-half are in force from all points in the state and from St. Louis, Mo. A number of farmers and their wives will make up the group from this county for the February 19-21 Dixon meeting.

Mrs. Otto Tenant and daughter, Nina, spent Sunday at the W. B. Dewey home in Ashton.

Carter Abandons His Work in Tut's Tomb

Luxor, Egypt, Feb. 13—(By The Associated Press)—Owing to what he characterized as the "discourtesy" of the Egyptian public works department, Howard Carter, head of the evacuation work, closed Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb today and abandoned operations. It is understood the crisis was precipitated by the refusal of the Egyptian government to permit wives of the excavators to visit the tomb this morning.

The correspondent was admitted today to view the gorgeous mummy case, disclosed yesterday by the releasing of the massive lid of the sarcophagus.

At the first view of this wonderful golden coffin with the face, shoulders, breast and arms of the pharoah standing out in bold relief, one realized this discovery was indeed an event in the annals of Egyptology.

The sight of the sheets of gold gleaming on the mummy case tells of the reward that awaited the ancient tomb robbers. A sheet of glass had been laid across the open sarcophagus. The first sight of the dead king's effigy was overwhelming. It might have been a huge golden idol.

NATIONAL LEAGUE WILL REWARD VALUED PLAYER

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, Feb. 13—The National League has followed the American League, in deciding to select annually the player most valuable in the circuit and to award him $1,000 and a written estimate of his worth. The magnates rejected a proposal to reward the most valuable player on each team.

Owners of the National so decided yesterday and also agreed to forswear paying bonuses to players for batting, pitching or field excellence, though until yesterday will remain active, and bonus provisions in contracts made up banuses for good conduct will continue.

The owners approved the work of their schedule committee which presented a layout of 154 games starting April 15 and ending September 29.

Holds Coffee, Tea Intoxicants; Makes Threat to Stop Use

New York, Feb. 13—Hudson Maxim, scientist and inventor, believes tea and coffee to be intoxicants within the meaning of the Volstead Act and threatens to bring suit to close cafes in which these beverages are served unless the enforcement authorities do something.

He told the Free Thinkers' Society last night he first would ask the federal authorities to act. Should they fail to do so, he said he would begin an action such as he would have a right to do against a saloon which the authorities would not raid and close.

NEW SENSATIONS IN OIL SCANDALS SAID TO BE NEAR

Denver Lawyer Says He Has Some Sensational Correspondence.

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Feb. 13.—Karl C. Schuyler, a Denver attorney telegraphed Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, today, that he has in his possession correspondence which he thought the senate oil committee should have. Senator Walsh said he would be summoned. At the same time the Montana senator received a telegram from D. F. Stackelback of the Denver Post saying he had good reasons to believe that the correspondence in Schuyler's possession was "sensational."

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Coolidge apparently is preparing to withdraw from the senate the nomination of Silas H. Strawn of Illinois, as special government counsel in the oil lease cases. It is possible that the name of Atlee Pomerene, Mr. Strawn's colleague, also will be withdawn.

James R. Garfield, of Ohio, who was Secretary of the Interior under Roosevelt, may be chosen as counsel in place of Mr. Strawn.

Opposition has developed to both of the men. Senators have declared that at least one of the lawyers should be a man trained in litigation over land leasing laws. Mr. Garfield, who was called to the White House today by Mr. Coolidge is regarded by the President's advisors as having the qualifications desired.

Knew Outcome Week Before.

J. Leo Stack, a Denver oil man, testified today before the senate oil committee that Pioneer Oil Co. officials had told him confidentially a week before Teapot Dome was leased that Harry F. Sinclair was to get the lease.

Stack, who testified yesterday, was cross examined by Chairman Lenroot.

Taking issue with George Creel, who testified yesterday, Stack said that the former chairman of the committee on public information did know that E. L. Doheny was associated with him in the efforts to get a lease to drill offset wells in Teapot Dome.

"I may not have told him the money I paid him came from Doheny," said Stack, "but he knew I had none and that Mr. Doheny was backing me."

Creel's "Grub Stake"

Stack said the $5000 he paid Creel was the amount named by the latter as "the grub stake" he would need. Creel was employed, he said, because he knew officials in Washington and was to represent the syndicate in the national capital.

Stack said he had shown Secretary Daniels where Teapot Dome was being drained every day, but that the secretary replied that if the field was being drained the government was getting its royalty oil just the same from the nearby wells.

He conferred also with several naval officers regarding the matter, Stack said, but became convinced that he was making no headway. It was after this he entered into a contract with Doheny to try to get the Teapot Dome lease. This was in January, 1921.

"What did you tell Mr. Doheny?" asked Chairman Lenroot.

"I told him that it was my belief that the new administration would lease the reserves."

Subject to Drainage

In the spring of 1921 Stack said, he went to Teapot Dome with consulting geologists of Denver and found that 2800 acres of the reserve was subject to drainage. After making a map of the Teapot Dome, he sent geologists here with it. He was told that geological survey officials agreed that the map was correct, and drainage was taking place.

"I showed Doheny the maps and told him what the geological survey

WARRANTS WHICH USED BY YOUNG MAY BE FAULTY

All Quiet Today in Herrin as Troops Patrol Streets.

Herrin, Ill., Feb. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Quiet pervails in Williamson County, pursuant to the proclamation of Major General Milton J. Foreman in command of the state troops, citizens are calmly going about their business singly and unarmed.

Scope of the order against firearms has included S. G. Young, Ku Klux Klan dry leader, who was requested by Lieut. Col. C. W. Noonan, commanding troops in Marion, to leave at home his two revolvers.

Meanwhile State's Attorney Delos Duty, Coroner William McGown, acting sheriff and Sheriff George Galligan have been studying warrants under which Young's dry raids were made, and which the prosecutor believes were improperly drawn.

Duty is also investigating warrants charging the murder of Caesar Cagle, under which Sheriff Galligan, Mayor Anderson of Herrin, Hugh Willis, state miners' union official and others are being held in jail in Marion.

Appeals to Citizens

An appeal to the Williamson county citizens who have kept aloof during the raiding and shooting has been made by General Foreman, who spent yesterday with Adjutantj General Carlos Black and Colonel Culbertson on an inspection tour.

General Foreman said that the officers had told the representatives of the citizens the root of the trouble was the permitting of unauthorized people to conduct raids and other acts of law enforcement and that two factions had been causing disturbances.

The coroner's jury into the death of Constable Cagle, examined several witnesses yesterday and was informed that the Cagle family desired that no more witnesses be called as they did not wish to divulge evidence before a trial. Jack Roe, a miner, said he saw Ora Thomas and a Shelton boy fire at Cagle, but Dr. J. T. Black, testified Thomas was at the hospital with John Layman, deputy sheriff who was wounded before Cagle was killed.

Soldiers Patrol Streets

Squadrons of soldiers patrolled the main roads last night. They stopped a number of automobiles and searched for contraband guns, ammunition and liquor, but reported no results. Others broke up groups of loiterers and several times searched suspicious looking persons for weapons.

Alderman Carl Nall, appointed mayor of Herrin by the city council in place of Mayor Anderson, requested authorities to arrest Otis Clark, implicated in the mine riot two years ago. Clark was released after questioning by the military.

Dixon Man is Badly Injured in Collision

James Bradley of this city, salesman for the Dixon Wholesale Tobacco Company, suffered painful injuries in an automobile accident on the Lincoln Highway about two miles east of Morrison yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock. At the Dixon public hospital this morning, it was stated that he spent a very restful night and that his injuries consisted of a broken knee cap on the right knee and minor cuts and bruises about the face and hands. The Ford roadster in which Mr. Bradley was riding was badly damaged and was hauled to Dixon this morning.

Reports of the accident were to the effect that Mr. Bradley was driving west toward Morrison about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and at a point about two miles west of that city on the Lincoln Highway, he met a new hearse belonging to the Rock Falls Manufacturing company, which was traveling east on a trial trip. The driver of the hearse is said to have been making an adjustment on the dash with one hand and driving at a fair rate of speed. The cars crashed head on. One glass in the hearse is reported to have been splintered by the impact while the Ford was completely wrecked.

Mrs. K. W. Blodgett of Morrison who was traveling east and following a short distance behind the Dixon man's car, stopped and brought Mr. Bradley to the Dixon hospital after he had received attention from a Morrison physician. The driver of the hearse is said to have escaped serious injury and the car he was driving was only slightly damaged.

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE PROGRAM WILL ALSO BE OF GREAT MERIT

Women Not Forgotten in Plans for Meeting in Dixon Next Week.

The Household Science Department of the Illinois Farmers' Institute, with its ever increasing interest in the making of better health, homes, schools, communities and citizenship, has considered many important subjects to be present at the big state wide meeting to bheeld at Dixon, February 19, 20 and 21.

In making the program the significance of big problems was considered. Never was there a time when people had so many constructive ideas in their minds and every normal man, woman and child can be and do something useful.

Making a home, pictures and how to use them, beauty in the home, management, a time schedule for daily duties, clothes for young and old, food the housekeeping firm, factors in health education, the underprivileged child, rural life, music, physical education, short cuts in the home, woman's part in the new future, teeth and their care, are some of the subjects to be presented by well known speakers from several states.

The Department of Household Science has a total of four hundred clubs and county organizations over the state and thousands of women meet regularly during the year to study and discuss the problems of every day life. A special feature of the state meeting will be the workers' conference with helpful suggestions for a greater program of activities.

Eminent Speakers

Mrs. William H. Hart, of Benton, a state wide known club leader and political worker, but who prefers to be known as a home lover will be the speaker for the opening session, Tuesday morning, February 19. Her subject will be "Making a Home." Many things are required of those to whom the responsibility of homemaking is given. The home should bear witness that the culture of human beings is the end to which it is built. It is not what one does, but the way it is done that speaks accomplishment. Mrs. Hart has an ideal in reaching a greater efficiency and will give the women who hear her a wider vision of their profession.

Another speaker, with authority, for the first session is Miss Gudrun Carlson, Chicago, a former food instructor at Columbia University and now a food nutrition specialist in a large in-

MANY MEN LAID OFF

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Manufacturers in Illinois laid off 14,000 men during January, as industrial activity continued on a gradual decline during the month accordling to estimates today by the general advisory board of the Illinois Department of Labor.

Increased unemployment during January is the rule in industry, the report said. It said that during February signs of a change for better have appeared.

Layoffs of reporting manufacturers alone totalled 5500 men, and from this figure the labor department estimated its total. Of thirteen cities with reporting employers, increases in employment were made only in Danville, Moline and Springfield. The extent of the lay-offs was largest in Decatur, East St. Louis, Peoria and Quincy.

Daugherty Denies Immunity Pledged in Settling Cases

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Feb. 13.—Attorney General Daugherty denied in a communication sent today to the senate that the Department of Justice had made any settlement in war contract cases by which immunity from criminal prosecution was promised provided the civil liability was met.

Many cases had been settled without criminal prosecution, the Attorney General said, but these involved in the main overpayments by the government through mistake of law or facts and other contentions which would not warrant criminal prosecution.

"In the settlement of civil liability, in the matters and cases referred to," Attorney General Daughetry wrote, "there has never been in any instance or case any agreement whatever, direct or indirect, immediate or remote, expressed or inferential, by the department of justice, not to prosecute for any criminal liability where there was such liability."

For the coming Saturday (Dollar Day) the business men have determined to out-do any of their former efforts, for within the next two weeks Dixon will be the most talked-of city in northwestern Illinois.

Automobile Fees for Registration Income Tax Exempt

"Automobile registration fees, driver's licenses and personal property taxes are deductable from the gross income in computing the federal income tax," says a Motor club.

Even to the average motorist the income tax saved is well worth while. To the owner of one or more cars or trucks the saving is considerable.

On the basis of the estimate of $331,500,000 as the total that motorists of the country paid last year in registration fees, drivers licenses and personal property tax, motorists would have approximately $13,000,000 if every automobile owner is a federal income tax payer and makes the deductions allowable under the lowest rate of tax paid.

A ruling has been requested by the American Automobile assocation as to whether the gasoline tax is also deductable. It is generally believed that it will be deductable if a plan can be devised whereby the federal government can check up on the amount of this tax paid: If an automobile owner would take the trouble to keep all of his sales tickets and have the tickets show separately the amount paid as a tax and for gasoline, there is little doubt but that this tax would be deductable. While the amount saved would hardly justify the owner in saving his gas tickets for a year, the owner of a fleet of trucks by doing so would be able to obtain a material saving.

Post Card Campaign for Bonus is Planned

Bloomington, Feb. 13.—A series of three post cards, to be mailed to United States representatives and senators, are beingo mailed to American Legion posts for use during the Legion's "Adjusted Compensation Week." The first card, which is labeled reminder number one, has space for the writer to express his preference for a bonus, for tax reduction without a bonus and for a bonus and tax reduction combined. The second card bears a parody of the various arguments against a bonus while the third bears the following appeal:

"In 1917 and 1918 you patted us on the back and said: 'Go out and kill or be killed—we'll take care of you when you come back.'

"In 1919 congress suggested adjusted compensation to partially overcome the economic handicap we suffered as a result of our service.

"In 1924 we are 'putting a price on our patriotism' when we remind you of your promise.

"In 1925 the attorney general will probably be suing for return of the $30 a month (minus allotments, insurance, etc.) that you lavished on us.

"How long, Oh, Mister Legislator—How long must we wait?"

The cards are being mailed to the various posts of the legion on order from the local commanders.

said and he became enthused," he continued. "I came here and took it up with Secretary Denby."

Stack said Denby told him "nothing doing. Teapot Dome is to remain as it has been."

He convinced the secretary, he said, that the drainage was taking place. This was in June, he said, and the reserves had been transferred to the Interior department in May.

A prediction that public opinion will force President Coolidge to relieve every official connected with the oil leases was made today by Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the democratic leader, in reply to the president's refusal to accept the senate's advice and immediately ask for the resignation of Secretary Denby.

Dr. Warren G. Murry, of the State Colony will be grateful for any reading matter for the Colony patients. Magazines or books may be left at this office or taken direct to the Colony.

Vote for Small is Vote for Good Roads

From Chicago American

For him now to pose—or permit himself to be posed—as a good roads "enthusiast" is about as amusing as it would be for U. S. Senator McKinley, interurban magnate, to take the platform and cry out more hard road trunk lines to further decrease the receipts of his traction lines. Senator McKinley is the main prop of Essington's downstate campaign.

That Senator Essington realizes how embarrassing is his situation—if his newspaper supporters do not—is evidenced by his campaign platform recently issued. In this he, with lawyer skill, dodges committing himself either FOR or AGAINST the $100,000,000 bond issue. He evidently realizes that he would be condemned if he did indorse what he fought in the Senate, condemned if he did not. He cannot arrive unless he gets on the good road, and if he does he is liable to be run down.

It might be better for Mr. Essington if he followed the course of his senatorial friend and ally, Senator Henry M. Dunlap, who in a speech in Urbana Tuesday night—given big space by the Chicago morning paper that is supporting Essington—declared specifically and emphatically AGAINST the $100,000,000 bond issue—declared that to build 1,000 miles of good roads in a year was altogether too fast, that it would be plenty soon enough if Illinois finished its standard, needed road-building in the dim and distant future.

Senator Dunlap is standing now where he stood in the Senate a year ago when he fought the Small road-building program, and Essington, at least, would get credit for frankness and honesty of conviction if he too stood now where he stood a year ago when he and Senator Dunlap led the onslaught in the vain attempt to prevent the people of Illinois having even the right to go to the polls and declare whether or not they wanted a $100,000,000 bond issue..

But no campaign camouflage can conceal the big issue:

A vote FOR GOVERNOR SMALL is a vote FOR MORE GOOD ROADS.

A vote against Governor Small is a vote AGAINST GOOD ROADS.

And it should always be borne in mind that this magnificent road-building program has been carried on and will be carried on WITHOUT ONE CENT FROM DIRECT TAXATION.

SUCCESS—

It's doing your job the best you can
And being just to your fellowman;
It's making money, but holding friends,
And staying true to your aims and ends;
It's figuring how and learning why,
And looking forward and thinking high,
And dreaming a little and doing much;
It's keeping always in closet touch
With what is finest in word and deed;
It's being thorough, yet making speed;
It's daring blithely the field of chance
While making labor a brave romance;
It's going onward despite the defeat
And fighting staunchly, but keeping sweet;
It's being clean and it's playing fair;
It's laughing lightly at Dame Despair;
It's looking up at the stars above,
And drinking deeply of life and love;
It's struggling on with the will to win,
B... taking loss with a cheerful grin;
It's sharing sorrow, and work, and mirth,
And making better this good old earth;
It's serving, striving through strain and stress;
It's doing your noblest—that's Success.

H. S. P.-T. in Most Interesting Meeting

The meeting held last evening by the High School Parent-Teachers association in the south side high school auditorium was a most successful and enjoyable affair, attended by over two hundred people, parents, teachers and pupils, all of whom thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

The Boys' Band of the Y. M. C. A. in uniform gave a concert the early part of the evening and they were enthusiastically encored. Mr. Cledon sent candy as a treat to the boys of the band.

The program included piano solos by Eugene Vest and Miss Evelyn Swingley which were much enjoyed, and Miss Goldie Rizner and Mrs. J. E. Reagan gave several delightful readings.

Stunts and games and athletics of a various nature were then given in the "gym" and Secretary Hunt of the Y. M. C. A. supervised the boys and in the absence of Dr. Case and Ray Cline who were unable to take charge. Mr. Hunt led the community singing which was a great success. Much appreciation is given Mr. Hunt for his tireless efforts in many lines last evening.

At the close of the games the good ladies in charge served sandwiches and coffee.

The surprise which the H. S. P. T. A had in store for the pupils is a most pleasing and interesting feature and it developed that the surprise will be in the purchase of pictures to the amount of $100 for the school, the purchase under the supervision of Miss Guernsey, instructor in art.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—

Leather Upholstery.

Leather upholstery will stay in excellent condition if you go over it about once a month with a mixture of one part vinegar and two parts linseed oil, applied on a soft cloth.

Celery Tips.

The tender tips of celery are delicious in salads. Or they may be dried in the oven and stored in glass jars to use for flavoring soups.

Medicinal Odors.

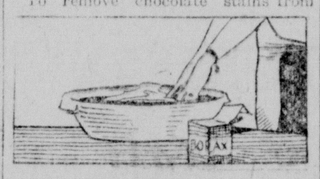

If certain medicinal odors cling to bottles when you wish to use them for other purposes, fill them half full of cold water and add a tablespoon of dry mustard. Shake vigorously, let stand for an hour and rinse thoroughly in cold water.

Pie Crust.

If you have more pie crust mixed than you need, roll the left-over portion in cheesecloth wrung out of cold water and put into a thick dry cloth. It will keep soft and fresh for at least a week.

Chocolate Stains.

To remove chocolate stains from wash material, soak in strong borax water for a while, then pour boiling water through the fabric and wash in the usual manner.

SLEEVELESS JACKET

The sleeveless jacket of flannel is one of the smart garments that are seen everywhere. They are worn under sport coats, in the house, outdoors for extra warmth—on every possible and impossible occasion.

Two styles are sketched. One is long and loose, the other fits closely around the waist and takes the place of a waistcoat with many of the new suits.

PUPILS ARE THRIFTY

Rockford, Ill.—This city is believed to lead the inland towns of Illinois in respect to thrift among the children of the public schools.

The pupils have $60,000 in the various school banks. There are 9000 deposits and each week they are permitted to place sums to their credit or to withdraw any amount they see fit. The average number of weekly depositors is 4500 and runs about $1500. In the prep school $3655 was deposited during the last semester. Since the first introduction of the savings bank system the amount deposited has shown a steady increase.

Great Britain's postage stamps have been printed by only four different firms since 1839.

JUSTICE IN OIL SCANDAL PLEDGE OF MR. COOLIDGE

Made First Public Address Since He Became President.

New York, Feb. 13—(By The Associated Press)—President Coolidge, speaking here last night before the National Republican Club, promised immediate and unshrinking prosecution of the oil land lease cases, appealed for national and bi-partisan support for the Mellon tax bill, called for assistance for agriculture from all resources of the country, and defended the sale of arms is Mexico.

The Chief Executive also reiterated his opposition to soldier bonus legislation, declared there was some promise of a European settlement, and asserted the United States stood ready to join with other nations in further limiting armament whenever there appears to be reasonable prospect of agreement.

The address, which was made at the Lincoln Birthday dinner of the Club, was the first Mr. Coolidge has made outside of Washington since he became President. In many respects it was an elaboration of his message to Congress.

The President devoted much attention to taxation and agriculture, but in concluding turned to the sensation of the present time—the oil land lease investigation.

Oil Reserve Scandal

"Lately there have been most startling revelations concerning the leasing of government oil lands," he said, "At the revelation of greed making its subtle approaches to public officers, of the prostitution of high place to private profit, we are filled with scorn and indignation. We have a deep sense of humiliation at such gross betrayal of trust, we lament the underming of public confidence in official integrity. But we can not rest with righeous wrath; still less can we permit ourselves to give way to cynisism.

"We propose to follow the clear, open path of justice. There will be immediate, adequate, unshrinking prosecution, criminal and civil, to punish the guilty and to protect every national interest. In this effort there will be no politics, no partisanship, it will be speedy, it will be just. I am a republican, but I can not on that account shield anyone because he is a Republican. I am a Republican, but I can not on that account prosecute any one because he is a democrat.

Wants No Hue or Cry

"I want no hue and cry, no mingling of innocent and guilty in unthinking condemnation, no confusion or mere questions of law with questions of fraud and corruption. It is at such a time that the qualities of our citizenry is tested—unrelenting toward evil, fair-minded and intent upon the requirements of due process, the shield of the innocent and the safeguard of society itself. I ask the support of our people as chief magistrate intent on the enforcement of our laws without fear or favor, no matter who is hurt or what the consequences."

Starting with the declaration that the "National unity for which Lincoln laid the foundation requires perpetual adjustment for its maintenance," Mr. Coolidge asserted the observance of this principle makes necessary that much attention now should be given to agriculture.

Agricultural Situation

It is obvious, the President said, that there is "something radically wrong when agriculture is found in its present state of depression when manufacturing, transportation and commerce are on a whole in a remarkable state of prosperity." He analyzed the difficulty as due to a greater increase in production than in the power of distribution and consumption and added that because of this the great food staples were not selling on a parity with the products of industry. The farmer, he asserted, "Is not receiving his share."

Acknowledging that it might seem strange that farming should be discussed here in the country's Metropolis, Mr. Coolidge told his hearers that they had a direct economic, financial and political interest. He outlined the steps already taken by the administration through encouragement of cooperative marketing, investigation of tariff rates and direct governmental relief; the steps contemplated through legislation, and then added:

Some Must Sacrifice.

"What I am most anxious to impress upon the prosperous part of our country is the utmost necessity that they should be willing to make sacrifice for the assistance of the unsuccesful part. I do not mean by that any unsound device like price fixing, which I oppose, because it would not make prices higher but would in the end make them lower, it would not be successful and would not prove a remedy, but I do mean that the resources of the country ought to come to the support of agriculture. The organization recently perfected to supply money and management for the larger aspects of agriculture ought to have your sympathic and active support."

Turning to taxes, as one of the contributing causes to the agricultural depression, Mr. Coolidge traced the steps taken to decrease and put in order the national debt through retirement and refunding of domestic securities; through the operation of the budget, and by making "every reasonable effort * * * to secure the liquidation of our international debt." These steps have had the result of permitting a decrease in taxes and the Mellon plan was evolved, he said.

The provisions of this plan, now embodied in a bill before Congress, Mr. Coolidge asserted, "are non-partisan, well thought out and sound." He endorsed the proposal to reduce surtaxes to a maximum of 25 percent," "not that small incomes may be required to pay more and large incomes be required to pay less but that more revenue may be secured from large incomes and taxes on small incomes may be reduced." He was opposed, he said, "to material alteration and compromise," because he wished "to give all the people all the relief" which the bill proposes.

"I stand on the simple proposition that the country is entitled to all the relief from the burden of taxation which it is possible to give, he continued. "The proposed measure gives such relief. Other measures which have been brought forward do not meet requirement. * * * You have heard of the Garner Plan. Brought forward to have something different, it purported to relieve the greatest number of taxpayers. It gave not the slightest heed to the indirect effect of high taxes, or to the approaching drying up of the sources of revenue and the consequent failure of the progressive income tax, or to the destruction of business initiative. It is political in theory. * * * It is impossible in practice."

Opposition to Bonus.

Mr. Coolidge said he wanted to remind the people that "unless they make their wishes known to Congress without regard to party this bill (the Mellon bill) will not pass" and he urged them "to renewed efforts."

Summing up his opposition to the bonus, he said, "it would mean the indefinite postponement of any tax reduction, another increase in the cost of living, more drying up of the sources of credit, and a probable raising of the rates of interest; all of which would result in inflation and higher prices, with the grave danger of ultimate disaster to our economic system."

Discussing the administration's policy of selling arms to Mexico, Mr. Coolidge said:

"It was done, not for the purpose of protecting any particular individuals or interests, but to exercise a legal right, while at the same time throwing our influence in favor of orderly procedure and evidencing our friendship toward the friendly government of Mexico. Any other course would appear to me to be unworthy of our country."

Mr. Coolidge also mentioned the participation of Americans in the Reparation Commission's endeavor to solve the reparations questions and declared investment of surplus American capital abroad should be encouraged.

AID THE BONUS.

"Adjusted Compensation" is the proper name applied to what has been usually called the Bonus issue. It simply means a very small and entirely inadequate recognition for the veterans of the World War. It could never be anything but inadequate, for what figure in money could represent the sacrifice offered by the American fighting men who went across to defend America and the democracy of the world.

Don't let them tell you it will bankrupt this country to pay the bonus. Such an argument is too silly to merit reply. And who can say that the bonus is not due. There was a time when the departing soldier was promised every consideration from this government. That was before the war was won. Are we to "welch" on that promise now? We hope not.

The following editorial in the American Legion Weekly for February 1 seems particularly to the point:

General Phil Sheridan received one hundred and sixty acres of land as an additional compensation for his services in the Indian War of 1853.

General Winfield Scott, for his services in the Mexican War, was given a simliar "bonus."

Admiral Farragut, for services as midshipman in the war of 1812 and commander in the Mexican War, received one hundred and sixty acres of land in addition to his salary as an officer in the Navy.

General Robert E. Lee, who served as a captain in the Mexican War, received a grant of one hundred and sixty acres under the act of 1850.

General Grant received one hundred and sixty acres of land for his services as a second lieutenant in the Mexican War.

Abraham Lincoln, who served forty days as a captain in the Black Hawk Indian War in 1832, received for his services, as late as 1850, forty acres of land. He also made application for one hundred and twenty additional acres on August 21, 1855.

Are there any greater names in American history than these?

Why not, then, do the same for O'Brien, Goldman, Schultz, Smith and the rest who went to the aid of their country in 1917? The principle is the same—only the names are different.

CREDIT HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT.

The Illinois Highway Department deserves great credit for the splendid manner in which they met the emergency of the recent snow storm. The Lincoln Highway, running both east and west from Dixon, was absolutely blocked for miles and would have remained in that condition indefinitely had it not been for the prompt action of District Superintendent Goeke and his efficient force.

Big ten ton caterpillar tractors, snow plows, quad trucks and other equipment promptly went into battle with the elements and in a remarkably short spact of time the highways were cleared and travel resumed.

REVISED TO 77.

The senate committee investigating the Bok peace prize award has developed the fact that only 77 plans of the 22,165 submitted ever found their way to the eyes of the jury of award, and that practically all of the 77 dealt with the league of nations in one way or another. Those facts confirm the public suspicion of the methods of the Bok organization.

WHEAT EXPORTS.

Farmers will be interested in final figures showing only about 98 million bushels of wheat exported in 1923 from America, compared with nearly 165 million bushels the year before. This was a drop of around two-fifths.

The export market is not the root of all farm evils, but it is of many.

TOURISTS AND EUROPE.

American tourists have been spending 300 million dollars a year in Europe.

Travel is increasing and it is not improbable that in 1924 Americans will leave in Europe enough money to pay the interest on what Europe owes Uncle Sam.

Mr. Bok is doubtless very grateful to the Senate propaganda-investigating committee for its unexpected co-operation in furthering his peace plans. Now will the committee do as much for Secretary Mellon's tax reduction plan?

Maybe the opprobrious epithet "scofflaw" will stab the conscience of a Boston drinking man, as it was intended to, but drinkers elsewhere show a scurrilous tendency to scoff at the epithet.

Does any one remember Horatio Seymour? He was the presidential candidate nominated by the last democratic convention held in New York. Will anybody long remember the candidate nominated by the next democratic convention held in New York?

The biggest problem in higher education now is parking space for the college students. Even Harvard is restricting enrollment.

Dan Dobb's Daily

MAN'S WORRY IS USELESS.
Missing Wife Found by Police.

Why worry? Every day something happens to show how useless weeping over sloshed milk can be.

Take the case of a man in New York. His wife was missing. He had no idea where she was for three years. What would you do under such circumstances? Why, you would worry. That's what this man did.

Cops searched three years, finally finding her in Chicago safely married to a plumber. Now doesn't that show the futility of worry?

CONTEST.
More Entries in Effort to Find Good Words.

Dan Dobb's efforts to find the six most important words in the English language are bringing results. The prizes will be awarded soon.

New entries are: "The stuff was water, not bootleg." "Here, you can use my handkerchief." "So I stopped, looked and listened." "The seed catalog did not lie." "Yes, we have a lower berth." "I love you, I love you." "I hate you, I hate you," and "Spring isn't so far away now."

SOCIETY.

Home often is merely a place where you get your mail. That is where a Chicago man slipped up. He didn't even come home for his mail, so his wife opened it for him. Now he is paying alimony.

MARRIAGES.

Cafe cashier chased a robber with a broom. She is single so we don't know how she got her training.

POLITICS.

Last presidential election we jumped from one party to another. It may mean nothing, but this is leap year.

DAN DOBB SAYS.

One nice thing about your wife being missing is you can find a place at home to hang your clothes.

EDITORIAL.

A Cincinnati dental student has been arrested. Cops say he killed a man and then robbed him. This young fellow is learning to be a dentist fast. Of cours, he carried both crimes too far. That is the trouble with young men, they become too enthusiastic over their work. A capable dentist should only nearly kill a man before robbing him.

BIRTHS.

The stork is voiceless, but a man with triplets tells us the bird is dumb in more ways than one.

SCHOOL NEWS.

The college student who recently married her professor may be teaching him now.

SPRING NOTE.

AUTO NOTES.

SPORTS.

Tex Rickard says the longest fight on record lasted two days, and the shortest one four seconds. He is wrong in both cases. The longest fight we ever heard of is Bryan's fight to become president. This has lasted for years and years. Perhaps the shortest fight was one time when an auto driver thought he could whip a traffic cop.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 24—SEVERAL RIDDLES

Sometimes they're silver, sometimes gold.

"Instead of a long riddle today," announced the Riddle Lady, "I'm going to ask several short ones. Now see who can be first to guess this one:

"Sometimes they're silver, sometimes gold,
And like those things, are hard to hold,
Tht gold ones oft are in cases,
Made out of glass like precious vases.

They have no stores, and yet, they've scales,
They have no feet, but all have tails,
They come in schools but have no books,
This is their motto, "Beware of hooks!"

"I know what it is," sang out Simple Simon. And at exactly the same instant didn't Tommy Tittle-mouse say it, too.

"What?" said the Riddle Lady.

"Fish!" replied both Simon and Tommy promptly. No wonder they could guess so easily. Simon fishing the silly way he did, in his mother's scrubbing pail, and Tommy Tittlemouse, who lived in the little house, fishing forever in other men's ditches!

"That's right" said the Riddle Lady. "The prize is a new fishing line for each of you. Now listen everybody. What is this?

"It wears no gown, but ne'er the less,
It travels not without address,
It cannot walk, it cannot tramp,
Yet never moves without a stamp."

Now, of course, my dears, this riddle sounds as easy as pie for you, but nobody knew what it was but the Twins. They knew for many reasons. First, because they had worked in the Fairyland Postoffice helping Mister Stamps. But anyway—did you ever, ever, ever hear of anyone in Mother Goose Land writing a letter?

Yes, that's what it was, a letter, and Nancy guessed it and got a nice box of writing paper of her own with pictures on it. The Mother Goose people thought it very curious.

"Now then, for the third riddle," said the Riddle Lady. "Listen carefully:

"It lives in a cellar,
But never leaves the kitchen,
It's one of the seasons,
Yet never sees the sky
Cap is full of holes,
But never puts a stitch in,
Must have its reasons!
Can you tell me why?"

Well, sir! Everybody nearly guessed his head off. But not a person could get it. Not even Nancy and Nick, and usually they could guess anything.

"Perhaps the kitchen is in the cellar. Some are," said the Crooked Man, whose front door went in the back way.

"No!" the Riddle Lady shook her head. "Not this cellar."

"And a season just cannot be in the house" declared the Old-Woman-Who-Lived-Under-the-Hill.

"This one can," smiled the Riddle Lady. "There are other reasons besides summer and winter and spring and fall. Perhaps I should have said 'The four seasonings' instead."

That let the cat out of the bag!

"Salt!... shouted everybody at once.

"That's right," laughed the Riddle Lady. "But there is no prize. You were all too slow!"

DESIRES
BY BERTON BRALEY

(W. H. Anderson, New York prohibition leader, testified recently he got a "present" of $20,000 from a certain "John T. King.")

I'd like to meet with John T. King
To deal me out a bunch of jack—
That sure would be a pleasant thing.

I'd buy the wife a diamond ring,
I'd buy myself a benzine hack;
I'd like to meet with John T. King.

John gives his cash a careless fling,
Then goes away—and comes not back
That sure would be a pleasant thing.

He loans his dough without a string
At twenty thousand bucks a crack,
I'd like to meet with John T. King.

My money cares would all take wing,
I'd have whatever now I lack;
That sure would be a pleasant thing.

Page Santa Claus and bid him bring
This generous person to my shack,
I'd like to meet with John T. King.

While he's at large to hope I cling
That he may slip me out a stack;
I'd like to meet with John T. King—
That sure would be a pleasant thing.

Evvard, Iowa Swine Expert, to Address Ill. State Institute

John M. Evvard, of the Iowa State College, at Ames, is one of the headliners for the February 21 session of the State Farmers' Institute at its 29th annual meeting this year held at Dixon, February 19, 20 and 21. No farmer in all Illinois who breeds, grows or fattens hogs can afford to miss what Prof. Evvard has to tell them about "Bringing Home the Bacon". John M. Evvard is classed by many authorities as the foremost animal experimentalist in America today, as regards economy, efficiency and profit, in growing and feeding swine. As head of the experimental work in this line at Ames, Evvard developed, named and exploited the Iowa idea of the Cafeteria, or free-choice plan of hog feeding, demonstrated its economy and practicability, and through placing it before the farmers of Iowa and the west generally, practically revolutionized the hog producing industry of America.

Prof. Evvard is the sort of investigator who would sit up all night at different times of the year to watch how often pigs drank water at night, thereby finding out things that nobody else knew. He figured that if the pig had access to all the necessary feeds, maybe he would fatten himself better than the most skillful handfeeding, and ten years of experiments show he was right.

Prof. Evvard has also done much work with pastures of different sorts for hogs and can tell what each will do in terms of pounds of pork produced. No man in the world has so much sound and dependable information on hog production right at his tongue's end as Prof. Evvard, and Illinois hog producers will get the entire benefit of this valuable knowledge during the State Institute at Dixon.

Be sure to ask your ticket agent for round trip ticket at reduced rates. Maybe a bunch are coming from your county. There is a department for the women folks, too.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues without right.—Prov. 16:8.

Riches without law are more dangerous than is poverty without law.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Duplication Names in Moline Schools Worry to Teachers

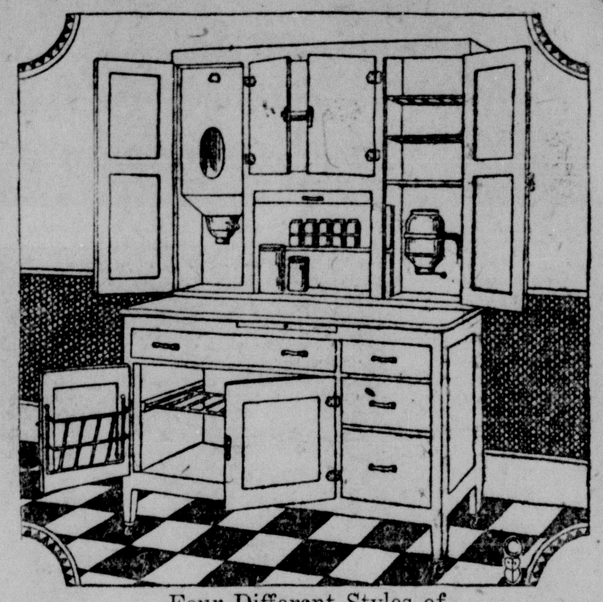

Moline—Duplication of names in Moline high school has become so serious that many pupils bear both the same given and surnames, and teachers are often at their wits ends to avoid mixed identities.

Among the Johnsons, of which there are twenty-three, there are three Harrys, two Evelyns, two Harolds, two Kenneths, two Margarets, two Pauls, two Richards two Violets, two Wallaces, and two Willards.

Other students who bear duplicate names are found among the Andersons, Carlsons, Engstroms, Larsons, Nelsons, Olsons and Petersons.

The army rule of "first name, middle initial and last name," has been adopted, and where the duplication is too general the students are being asked to part their names in the middle and on the sides to avoid serious confusion among the Swedish students grades, recitations, classes and personal belongings.

LOCAL CHARITIES WELL TAKEN CARE OF DURING YEAR

Work Financed By Salvation Army Advisory Committee.

The Dixon Associated Charities, to which organization will go one-half the amount raised in the annual Salvation Army drive which began this morning, was organized by the Lee county Salvation Advisory Board in 1922, for the purpose of caring for local charity and social service work in Dixon.

Mrs. Ida McCleary was chosen president, and she, with the assistance of a number of other women, has given unstintingly of her time and work and a large amount of needed relief work has been accomplished.

The funds for the work have been supplied by the Advisory Board from the annual Home Service Appeal conducted for the Salvation Army by Dixon Elks. President Louis Pitcher of the board has served as treasurer and the accounts are audited by a committee appointed by the Elks.

Last Year's Work

The following report shows some of the good work accomplished by the Associated Charities last year:

Used garments given to worthy poor	3860
New garments given to worthy poor	940
Shoes, new and worn, given to worthy poor, pairs	280
Beds and cots given worthy poor	12
Pieces of bedding given to worthy poor	84
Sewing machines given to worthy Poor	4

In addition, washing machines, baby cabs, baby clothing, crutches, stoves and furniture of various kinds have been distributed.

At Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets of provisions were given.

Medical, dental and surgical work has been secured for those, especially children, unable to pay for it.

Mrs. McCleary has visited 75 homes in social service work.

She has served as police matron in a number of cases.

Dixon Lodge No. 779, B. P. O. Elks will conduct an appeal for $2000.00 in Dixon, Feb. 11th to 16th.

$1000.00 of this amount is for the state work of the Salvation Army.

The institutions of the Army are at the disposal of this community through the local Advisory Board. $1000.00 remains in Dixon and will be handled by the Associated Charities in doing relief work.

Make your subscription a liberal one as this will be the only appeal for a year in behalf of these organizations.

CAP AND RIBBON.

Some of the newest and smartest hats are not much more than a cap with a twist of ribbon falling off one side. They fit very neatly over the close shingle bobs.

Mabel Carney, Rural Educator, at State Institute

Miss Mabel Carney, former Assistant Professor of Rural Education at Columbia University, author and writer has been secured for an evening address to be given before the joint session of the State Farmers' Institute and Department of Household Science at Dixon February 20.

Illinois claims Miss Carney for she was reared on a farm in this state and received her education here. She has had wide teaching experience. Three years were given to rural schools; three years as teacher of rural demonstration schools connected with State Normal work. She has served as Director of Rural School Departments in Washington Normal schools and as State Supervisor of Teacher-Training Departments in Minnesota High Schools. Her work at Teachers' College, Columbia University, had given her national prominence and she is considered authority on country life. Her book, "Country Life and the Country School," is found in many libraries and is read by masses of people.

She has contributed articles to magazines and edits and compiles bulletins on rural needs.

Miss Carney has chosen for the subject of her Dixon address "America's Future." Has the rural school been neglected? Is it meeting the demand of present day needs? What part has Illinois in rebuilding rural America? No one is better fitted to answer all these and many more questions not to bring a message of inspiration and information than this educator.

TO TRY McCRAY MARCH 4

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 12—March 4 was the date set today for the start of the trial of Governor Warren T. McCray on twelve indictments returned by the Marion County grand jury last November and December. The date was set after Judge James A. Collins of the criminal court, had overruled pleas in abatement filed by the governor's attorneys and argued today. The governor formally pleaded NOT guilty.

STATE AGREES TO CHANGE RT. 27 THRU POLO

Will Leave on Mason St., Details Are Settled at Meet.

Polo, Ill.—At a conference held here between Engineer of Design H. E. Surman and Division Engineer O. F. Goeke of the State Highway Department, Bridge Engineer Fagley and Assistant Bridge Engineer Cramer of the Burlington Railroad, County Superintendent of Highways Alex. Ander, City Engineer J. T. McGrath, Mayor Don Smith, C. D. Rowland, President of the Retail Merchants' Club, W. T. Schell, Cashier of the Exchange National Bank, and others, several important matters in regard to Routes No. 26 and 27 were discussed and tentatively agreed upon by those present, the final decision being reserved for the Burlington management and the state.

The first important subject discussed was the matter of the viaduct over the Burlington on Division street. As to the viaduct proper there seems to be no question but that one will be built some time. The question at issue seems to be the relative amounts of the cost of the fills or approaches to be respectively borne by the railroad and the state. The state was asked to determine the Burlington's share and submit it.

The state has let the contract for Route 26 from Forreston to approximately the crest of Fairmount Cemetery hill and will complete this section next summer. The city and the state will let the contract for the section extending from the standpipe to the south city limits this summer. The section between the standpipe and the cemetery hill which will include the fill or approaches and the viaduct will be let as soon as the state and the Burlington can come to terms. The Burlington has five years in which to construct the viaduct after the terms have been agreed upon. Those at the conference urged the necessity of beginning work upon it at once so that Route 26 would be completed through this city at approximately the same time. It is believed that the Burlington will accede to this request because of some of its other requests having been acceded to.

Sometimes it seems to dad that after he has slaved all year he has nothing to show for it except a calendar from his merchant.—Country Gentleman.

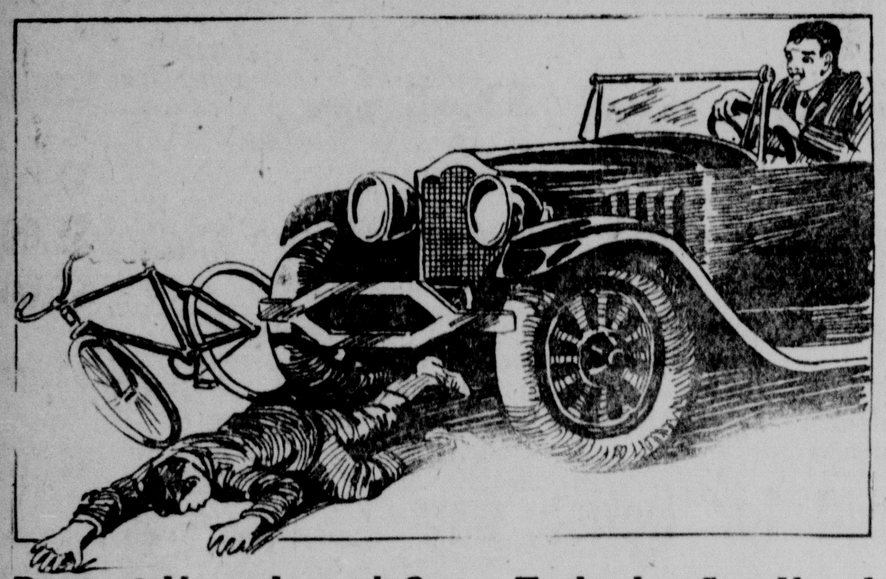

"Every 23 minutes some person is killed on the Highway and every two and one-half minutes someone is injured."

NEWS FROM DIXON YMCA

Toastmaster's Club Entertained Ladies at Pleasant Banquet

Last evening the Toastmasters' club held their first ladies night in the Y. M. C. A. when nearly 60 members with their wives were present, at a Valentine banquet. The decorated tables with the hats, streamers and noise makers added much to the evening. One of the surprises was the decorated grab bag which was taken around the banquet tables by wee Vivian Kietzman and Allen Lancaster whose ages are two years. Every member and guest drew out a pretty favor as a memonto of the occasion. Later wee Ruth Sell presented each lady with a half pound box of candy with compliments from one of the members—"Jimmy" Cledon.

Following songs with words set for this particular banquet, president Lancaster called on Dr. Smith, commonly called "Daddy" of the club, who addressed the banqueters on the purpose of the club. Dr. Smith told that each member takes the following obligations when he joins:

1. To attend meetings regularly.
2. To pay dues promptly.
3. To do his part when called on.
4. To be a hig-hearted, broad-minded man, a man of energy and action, a real man—a toastmaster.

The main event of the evening was in the hands of A. G. Harris, who first gave an address on Parliamentary Practice and then called on several members to come forward and act as chairman of an imaginary business meeting. This last part was impromptu and was the cause of much fun and many a laugh at the expense of these chairmen.

The ladies were so pleased with the affair that several of them spoke and then and there appointed a committee of Mrs. Dr. Segner, Mrs. E. Kennedy and Mrs. Dr. Smith to plan a return evening for the Toastmasters club to be given one month from last night. It will take the form of a scramble supper and the ladies have promised many surprises in the way of a program.

The Boys band which was holding its regular weekly practice gave a closing concert as the first ladies night of the Toastmaster's club broke up.

St. Mary's Fought Way to Victory in Exciting Contest

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

North Central	0	4	.000

Before a record-breaking crowd of rooters and spectators the St. Mary's basket ball team fought its way to victory over the E. C. Smith five in the Grade School basket ball tournament Monday afternoon by a score of 20-17. From start to finish the game was one that kept the audience on their toes the entire time and the cheering was practically continuous. In the early part of the contest the E. C. Smith outfit took the lead and held it for most of the first half but field goals by Joyce tied the score when the first session was over. The second half started with the E. C. Smith taking the lead by a point, but St. Mary's soon reversed this order of things and then kept the lead by only a point or two for the remainder of the game. Joyce was easily the star of the game, playing the floor well besides making 15 of St. Mary's 20 points. Lair was the outstanding player for the E. C. Smith, whose teamwork outclassed St. Mary's but who seemed unable to strike at the critical point.

St. Mary's—Hilliker, rf.; O'Malley, lf.; Joyce, c.; Harvey, rg.; Kinney, Buckingham, lg.

E. C. Smith—Nolan, rf.; Lair, lf.; Lambert, c.; Archer, rg.; McCrystal, lg.

Field Goals: Joyce, 7; Lair, 5; Nolan, 2; Hilliker, Buckingham.

8,000 Teamsters in Chicago Are Striking

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Eight thousand members of teamsters' local union 731, including grading and excavating teamsters and those hauling cinders for private concerns, struck today to enforce a demand for a wage increase of 81 cents a day and an eight-hour day instead of nine. Construction of foundations of buildings and public improvements are expected to be seriously affected.

The strikers have been receiving $5.50 a day for nine hours or $6 where the teamster helps load. The demands which were rejected by the Contracting Team-owners' Association, were declared by its officials to amount to a 20 percent increase in costs.

CHARGES OF HERESY

New York, Feb. 12.—Charges of extreme heresy have been preferred against Rev. W. H. Brown of Galion, O., a former bishop of Arkansas and a member of the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church by Bishops A. C. A. Hall, of Vermont, J. M. Francis of Indianapolis and W. L. Gravatt of West Virginia, it was revealed today.

National Authority On Good Music, at Farmers' Institute

Mrs. Frances E. Clark, Camden, N. J., one of the big "head liners" at the three days' household science sessions to be held with the state-wide farmers' institute at Dixon, February 19, 20 and 21 will have a message of great importance to men, women and children.

She is Second Vice-president and Chairman of Legislation and Fellowships of the National Federation of Music Clubs, and appears from coast to coast before many organizations. She originated and developed the idea of the use of real music in the schools through reproductions, on records, of the great masterpieces.

As a result of this work music appreciation is fast becoming perhaps the most vital phase of present day school music work. It has also wrought the miracle of taking the great music of the world into the rural home and community. There is no one in America so well equipped from education, training and experience to bring a lasting message of the values of good music to the homes of Illinois.

Very recently Mrs. Clark spoke before a state meeting in an eastern city. It was a monster convention. The women were transplanted by the beauty of the illustrations used. After showing the needs and hunger for good music short excerpts were played from the most beautiful records to be obtained. There was music for the baby, the girl, the boy, the mother, father, grandmother and grandfather; then for the neighborhood and community activities. When the vast audience joined in humming the well known "Bock-a-bye Baby" and singing, to band accompaniment "My Old Kentucky Home" and "America the Beautiful" it would have melted the heart of any critic.

This nationally known speaker will appear before the closing joint session of the Dixon meeting, Thursday, Feb. 21, and her subject will be "Music in Country Lanes."

SEEK THIRD PARTY

St. Louis, Feb. 12—A resolution adopted today at the convention of the National Conference for Progressive Political action calls for a convention of "workers, farmers and progressives" at Cleveland, starting July 4. Delegates explained this action "paves the way" for a third major political party.

40th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OF POLO FOLK

Friends Helped Mr. and Mrs. G. Webster Celebrate Event.

Polo, Ill., Feb. 6.—Wednesday, Feb. 6th, was the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Webster, and in honor of the occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Webster invited the members of the men and women's class of Loyal Workers of the Brethren Sunday school, to help them celebrate the event. About 30 guests were present. The guests were invited for a 7 o'clock cafeteria supper, to which all did ample justice. Mr. and Mrs. Webster were presented with a cut glass and silver sandwich tray. After the supper, the evening was spent socially.

The following evening some of the old neighbors of the Websters invited themselves to the Webster home, bringing with them well-filled baskets. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Arens, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Tavenner, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Typer, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Smith, Miss Freda Bitter. To say that the later event was a surprise, is stating it mildly, but the guests were soon made welcome, and a delicious chicken supper was enjoyed by all.

M'KENZIE BILL FOR BRIDGE UP TO PRESIDENT

Provides for Half of Cost of New Bridge Over Mississippi.

From Washington comes word that the McKenzie bill for federal aid in the construction of a free Lincoln memorial bridge over the Mississippi river between Fulton and Clinton passed the Senate yesterday and now goes to President Coolidge for his approval which he expected to give at an early date.

The bill which authorizes the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi river at Fulton and provides that one-half of the cost is to be paid by federal aid and the other half to be equally divided between the states of Illinois and Iowa.

With the signing of the bill by the president, the burden of the work of developing the building of the proposed new bridge falls upon the states of Iowa and Illinois. The state legislatures of the two states will be required to appropriate about $250,000 each to pay their shares of the million dollar structure, which is estimated as the cost. If the two state legislatures give their approval during the current year and pass the needed appropriations, it is possible that the contract can be let this year.

No. 11—BUSINESS BEFORE PLEASURE

"BUSINESS BEFORE PLEASURE, YOU KNOW."

Directly across town in the East Side Side are the hangouts of gangsters of another type. They are the gunmen, from whose ranks some of the greatest figures in all mobdom have arisen—Lefty Louie, Kid Dropper, and a host of others.

They are scattered all over—in restaurants, club rooms, candy stores and flats. But their chief joint is the pool room.

In a basement, heavy with smoke and lined with on-lookers, are the gangsters at play. They scarcely look up from their tables; yet they seem to see and hear everything. A footstep unknown causes a stir. But it doesn't stop the game. It just changes its pace.

A few words of greeting, and exchange of names, and I was invited to sit down.

Next to me sat a youngster, hardly over 22, swarthy in appearance and not bad looking. He was sitting around swapping stories with an older man who had just got back from Sing Sing.

The police have been looking for this boy for more than a year. He is a Dutch-houseman, who pulled off a particularly daring flat robbery, in which a beginner was caught. The police grilled their victim; they promised him immunity if he would teill who his Fagin was. But the boy was loyal to his mob. He took his medicine like an old-timer, served his time in the reformatory, and came out—hardened for other enterprises.

Not all the gang were there. Part of it was "laying low"—for there had been a murder on a neighboring street a few nights ago, and the police had their suspicions. But nobody was doing any telling—although nearly everybody knew.

"Guess I'll have to start making an easy dollar myself pretty soon," confided the youthful Fagin. "I'm getting low—and my broad is getting restless."

So he went on whispering with his more experienced companion—getting a line on a new enterprise. He apologized for not talking much to me.

"Business before pleasure, you know," he said smiling.

MACDONALD'S FIRST SPEECH

London, Feb. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Ramsay Macdonald, Great Britain's new labor premier, making his first speech in the house of commons as the head of the government, called attention to the fact that no party had a majority. The new conditions, he said, would necessitate alteration in the habits of the members, as individually they would have to vote more and more on their personal responsibility and not merely as party politicians.

The labor government, he declared, was not going out of office as the result of any snap division. It would only go out of it were defeated on a substantial issue.

He thanked the "calm and sane-minded business men" who had warned investors not to make fools of themselves because of the advent of a labor government. He appealed to the country to keep steady.

CHARGE MAKERS OF FARM TOOLS OPPOSE CO-OPS

Trade Commission Has Ordered Them to Reply to Charges.

Washington, Feb. 12—A complaint charging several agricultural machinery manufacturers and some 500 local implement dealers in eastern states with conspiracy to restrain trade by cutting off machines supplied to farmers' cooperative associations was issued by the Federal Trade Commission.

The International Harvester Company, Emerson-Brantingham Co., Moline Plow Company, Oliver Chilled Plow Works, and Deere & Co., and retail dealers affiliated with the Eastern Farm Machinery Dealers' Association, were all cited to respond within thirty days to the charges.

The commission said retail dealers located in the territory between New England on the north and South Carolina on the south had combined for more than seven years to boycott any manufacturer who sold to cooperative enterprises of farmers.

They were further said to have fixed prices and profit margins in the sale of implements, while the manufacturers named were said to have "continuously assisted the Retail Dealers' Associations in carrying out their purposes, and to have contributed money for this purpose."

Washington, Feb. 12.—Legality of the ruling by A. B. Fall while secretary of the interior which permitted leasing of the unallotted lands on Indian reservations for mining and the production of oil and gas was questioned today by a house Indian affairs sub-committee after an investigation of the former secretary's actions.

CHIROPRACTIC

FOR PULMONARY TUBERCULOSIS

What Chiropractic Is Doing for Sufferers of the Great White Plague

The dream of scientists for years has been to discover a cure for tuberculosis. Research and experiment along this line have been unlimited and the work has been carried on by men of broad education, possessing more than ordinary brain power, who have conscientiously concentrated all their thought and energy to this end. What has been accomplished by all of this effort? How many people are dying today from the ravages of this dreaded disease? It certainly cannot be that time, money and brains have been spared, for they have been exerted to the extreme. It cannot be the fault of the men who have tried and labored to extinguish this disease. NO,—it is their method. All of this energy has been exerted in one direction, and that to discover a cure. Now it would seem logical that before a cure could be successfully discovered the cause be absolutely established, and this has not yet been done within the ranks of the medical profession. It then would be the height of folly to attempt to get rid of the diseased condition without removing the cause, and THE CAUSE CANNOT BE REMOVED UNTIL IT IS FIRST KNOWN. Scientists, from time to time have discovered many different "serums" for which they claim great "curative power," but experiment shows that their claims cannot be proven, as no results have been shown.

Regardless of the outcome of past experience in attempting to discover a cure, there are still millions of dollars being spent in the same way as before in trying to get rid of the effect without removing the cause. But at the same time these experiments were being made, there have been experiments made to determine the cause of tuberculosis. Manifold experiments along Chiropractic methods have absolutely proven, beyond question of a doubt, that the secret of the cause of tuberculosis and its removel lies within the boundaries of that sciene.

Principle of Chiropractic

Every organ in the body is supplied by nerve fibres. These nerve fibres all converge toward a common center, which is the brain. The first main trunk given off from the brain is the spinal cord, and from here, many nerve fibres make their way between the bony segments of the spine, progressing to the various tissues and organs. It is the function of these nerve fibres to carry vital energy from the brain to the tissue cells, and IT IS UPON THIS SUPPLY OF VITAL ENERGY THAT THE HEALTH OF THE TISSUE IS DEPENDENT. These nerve fibres convey different kinds of vital energy: Nutrition, expansion, heat, motor, etc. All of these different kinds of vital energy must be supplied in noraml quantity in order for the tissue to reamin normal. If they are not so supplied, the tissue becomes diseased—the location of the disease being determined by what nerve fibres are deficient in their expression, and the kind of disease being determined by what type of vital energy is deficient. For instance: If those nerve fibres passing to the lung are affected, the lungs are abnormal. Whether this abnormality takes the form of a tumor, inflamation or tuberculosis, depends entirely on what function is not being properly expressed. If there is an excess of expansion impulses, then a tumor will develope. If an excess of heat impulses is expressed, then fever occurs. If nutrition and the ability to repair are deficient, and if heat is present in excess, then tuberculosis manifests itself. It can readily be seen then that the character of the disease depends upon what functions are impaired.

The Real Cause

Having determined that disease results from an abnormal expression of this vital energy at the ends of the nerves, let us seek for the reason. As the nerve progresses from the brain to the lung, it passes first through the spinal cord, and then is given off from the spinal cord, passing between two adjacent bony segments to its termination in the lung... The only place where this nerve can be interfered with is at that point where it passes between the two bony segments of the spine. If one of these segments is not in its normal position, the opening through which the nerve passes is decreased in size, and the nerve is pressed upon. Naturally its ability to carry vital energy is thereby impaired. The only way to restore that nerve fibre to the condition where it is able to express the vital energy normally, is to remove that pressure. This in turn can only be done by the restoring of the bony segment to its normal position.

What to Do

The Chiropratcor is not only proficient in determining which bony segments are out of proper position, but he is also thoroughly trained in how to restore those segments to their normal state. This he does with the hands alone and without the use of any special instrument. When his work is accomplished, the pressure is removed from the nerve or nerves, and the lungs being supplied with its normal quantity of vital energy is naturally restored to health.

Case after case under the care of the Chiropractor has proven this contention. To those who are suffering from tuberculosis and who see no hope in any other method, it is earnestly suggested that they consult with their local Chiropractor, permit him to examine their spines, and then have those spines adjusted so that health may exist.

Mr. Taft needs no introduction to an Illinois audience for his work on the buildings of our great World fairs, his monument designs, his work in clay, makes him dear to the hearts of the people. His sculpture in Paris and other European cities is told about in books. His personal message is given in beautiful language—the simplest words.

Another interesting speaker for the first day will be Miss Ruth A. Wardall, Head of the Home Economics Department, University of Illinois. Miss Wardall is an educator with keen conception of the present day needs of women and her interest in the home, school, college and other institutions makes her a leader in her profession. She will give valuable instruction to her audience touching on the necessity of the best training for the job of homemaking "Analyzing Our Jobs" will be Miss Wardall's subject.

For the first afternoon Mrs. Josephine C. Chandler, of Havana, artist, author and magazine writer who speaks through pictures of the masters will be the third speaker. How to look at a picture and how people should study art will be presented by this able woman and her exhibit. Her topic is "The Use of Pictures." Mrs. Chandler will tell her hearers how the artist helps them to know the story of his work which should be used to beautify the home, school and public place.

Mrs. George Gelhorn, of St. Louis, Mo., a nationally known community leader, political and civic worker who speaks before many prominent state organizations will address the joint evening session, February 19 on "Woman's Part in the New Future."

Since women have become citizens a knowledge of how to use the franchise intelligently and effectively is sought from every source. Hundreds of questions are asked and women of authority are doing everying to make the woman voter intelligent, not losing sight of the fact, however, that she has one greater job—homemaking—and that she must fill that sphere to the very best of her ability. Mrs. Gellhorn has an interesting message for both men and women. Her gift of oratory, infectious enthusiasm and great dramatic gifts enables her to convert others to her convictions. She is most effective in any cause with which she is identified.

A Home Survey

On Wednesday morning a most helpful session will be held by the Department of Household Science. The 1923 state wide survey which brought out many important questions will be presented by Mrs. Maude C. Hessler, of Galesburg. Mrs. Hessler is a prominent household science worker, teacher and writer. She served as chairman of the state wide homemakers' questionnaire committee which sent one thousand sets of questions to as many women. Her statistics will have some interesting figures. Two time projects for 1924 have been given the homemakers—Dishwashing and Meal Planning. Mrs. H. M. Dunlap, Savoy, the mother of household science work in Illinois, and at present one of the best known women in the state giving her time and personal experience to assist others, will tell the audience all about dish washing from a scientific and systematic standpoint.

Meal planning a most important, yet often neglected part of home management, will be discussed by Mrs. Alma Kruse Rucker, Taylorville, who is known among food demonstrators and home economics teachers. For years she was supervisor of a large high school home economics department and at present demonstrates before many organizations. Hr work as food director at the State Fair School her personality and ability endears Mrs. Rucker to the hearts of the young women of the state.

Another woman nationally known through her home management, table and food talks over radio is Mrs. Anna J. Peterson, of Chicago. As it has been put "she teaches a class of a half million homemakers" and her message is carried into the homes of the Nation, thus improving conditions and inspiring homemakers. Her school of cookery and hame management in Chicago is attended by large groups of women. She will give a most instructive address on "Short Cuts in the Home." Mrs. Peterson will be heard the second afternoon.

Budgeteering.

An expense account frightens most housekeepers, but it is a fascinating privilege to try out different systems. The importance of keeping an account of family expenditures cannot be over estimated, provided it is used to control expenses. Many printed forms have been impractical for this very reason. Mrs. D. H. Otis, Madison, Wisconsin, has made a study of the family account book, also how women may secure leisure time in homemaking and will speak before the household science session Wednesday afternoon on "The Housekeeping Firm."

Miss Mabel Carney, assistant professor Columbia University, writer, and authority on rural community problems will be the interesting evening speaker on the second day, Feb. 20. She has a broad knowledge of country life work and has an interesting and instructive message for the men and women who are making better communities in Illinois. "America's Future" is the subject from which Miss Carney will speak.

Child Care and Health.

No Department of Household Science program would be complete without a session on health problems and the care of children. On Thursday morning the time will be devoted to these most important needs. Strong speakers, well informed on their subjects will address the women at the Dixon meeting.

Dr. Eva M. Wilson, Manhattan, physician, farm partner, lecturer and community health officer will open the session with "A Health Special." This speaker has been heard not only in nearly every county in Illinois but in other states, for she addresses women's clubs, parent-teacher associations, farmers' institutes household science clubs and health organizations. Dr. Wilson is a great factor in making better health for greater efficiency in the homes of the state. She is also a home lover, making constant investigation of better equipment, and all her subjects are of personal interest to her audiences.

Teeth and the great value they are to health is a study which has been neglected in most women's organizations. The household science department is most fortunate in securing an able speaker in the person of C. Carroll Smith, D. D. S., Peoria, Public School Dentist, who gives his time to the schools of Peoria. He also appears before state and national dental societies holding instructive clinics. Dr. Smith handles the subject on "Teeth" in simple language that not only adults can thoroughly understand him but the school child as well.

Miss Mary Polmeteer, Waukegan, Juvenile Probation Officer, is authority on the needs of the "run about child." So often today children are not given a square deal early in life and become dependents through no fault of their own. This makes undesirable citizens. Parents fail in the responsibility entrusted to them the training of children—and "Billy" is not given a chance. Miss Polmeteer will tell about "The Underprivileged Child," as she sees him, and her message should be heard by all who have children under their care.

As a closing feature of the Thursday morning session, Miss Alice Fleuck, Physical Director in the Dixon schools, will give a demonstration, using a physical training class of grade pupils. This will show the need of such education that healthy bodies may be made. Recreation in the home is just as important.

Music Appreciation.

Mrs. Frances E. Clark, Camden, N. J., Second Vice-president and Chairman of Legislation and Fellowships of the National Federation of Music clubs, originated and developed the idea of the use of real music in the schools, through reproduction, on records, of the great masterpieces. As a result music appreciation is becoming a vital phase of present day school needs. It has also wrought a miracle in taking the great music of the world into the rural home and community.

Mrs. Clark will address the joint session of the farmers' institute and department of household science, Thursday afternoon, February 21. Her subject is "Music in Country Lanes" and no one in America is so well equipped from education, training and experience to bring this valuable message to the farm homes of Illinois. Her audience will assist her in demonstrating good music.

Workers' Conference.

The household science workers' conference will be held late Wednesday afternoon during the state wide meet-ing at Dixon. "Our Activities" will furnish the suggestion for helpful discussion and Mrs. G. E. McMahon, Olney, President of the Board of Woman Managers, State Fair School of Domestic Science, will tell of the work accomplished by the school held two weeks each year during the state fair. Miss Margaret Brooks, Springfield, teacher of art and elocution and lecturer before teachers' and farmers' institutes will tell the women something about "Profitable Programs." Mrs. E. W. Burroughs, Edwardsville, homemaker and community club leader will give valuable hits on "Making Household Science Club Work Attractive." How the work is done in a model county with a high standard for organization, will be told by Mrs. F. A. Fisher, Mt. Carmel.

Mrs. H. H. Douglass, of Northwood, Iowa, will be the last speaker on the Wednesday morning session. Her address will include her personal experience with a time schedule on the farm during summer, the working out of a winter schedule, how to use it and the benefit derived from a close adherence to it. "The Use of the Time Schedule" will be a new and interesting subject for Mrs. Douglass.

Clothing Hints

Miss Nancy G. Gladish, Austin, textile expert, teacher and chautauqua demonstrator will open the interesting session planned for Wednesday afternoon, February 20. Miss Gladish has had wide teaching experience and at present has a high school textile department with classes numbering one hundred and seventy-five. Her work includes plain sewing, free hand cutting, millinery, home furnishing, budgets and kindred subjects. No one is better fitted to speak from the subject "Cothes for Young and Old" than this expert.

HEALTHGRAMS

Last year the state department of public health, through its fine staff of physicians and nurses, examined nearly 10,000 babies. The physicial defects found greatly outnumbered the children. This situation emphasizes the importance of the regular examination of young children by competent physicians.

A little prevention goes a long way, according to an old adage. In the case of preventing illness in children it may go for 75 to 100 years. Folks have been known to lose the sense of hearing and speaking because of a lack of proper care following an attack of scarlet fever. Others have died or suffered various forms of lifelong disabilities because of similar circumstances.

Red letter days on the calendar of health include the date of arrival which should be accompanied by a drop of silver nitrate in the eyes and the registration of the birth. At six months of age should come vaccination against smallpox followed by immunization against diphtheria. At one year the baby should have a complete physical examination by ae competent physician and another on each suceeding birthday.

A trip to a well baby clinic is infinitely better for the baby than an evening at the movie or even an hour at religious service. Perhaps the baby may enjoy a nap at the movie but he incurs also the danger from contagion that may be in circulation without compensating medical advice.

Lynching fell off 53 per cent last year as compared with the year before, according to recent dispatches. Perhaps a discussion of the diphtheria problem by congress would have the same wholesome effect opines the state director of public health. Diphtheria is no less preventable than lynching, he declares.

Notifiable diseases reported to the state department of public health during January of this year were far below the average and the lowest in five years for that month. With the exception of tpyhoid fever, gonorrhea and measles, which increased slightly, all the more important communicable diseases showed sharp declines as compared with January of last year. The total reported incidence of all notifiable disease falls about 5,000 cases below that for 1923. Figures for January, 1923, and 1924 respectively for some of the more important diseases are as follows:

Diphtheria, 1697 and 985.
Scarlet fever, 1556 and 1372.
Smallpox, 367 and 30.
Typhoid, 65 and 174.
Pneumonia, 2687 and 1525.
Influenza, 1632 and 101.
Gonorrhea, 1347 and 1596.
Syphilis, 910 and 930.
Whooping cough, 1103 and 527.
Tuberculosis, 1775 and 1095.
Measles, 21554 and 2339.

If there is anything with which the American people are familiar today it is certainly the matter of "drives." Drives for the financial support of charitable, social, religious and educational activities follow each other in a ceaseless, never-ending procession. The fundamental reason back of most drives is that a multitude of people are not self-sustaining, says the state health director, and sickness is the greatest cause of dependency. Any healthy family can easily be self-sustaining under anything like normal conditions.

Forward looking doctors of the American Medical Association are pointing out with increasing frequency that the future of the practice of medicine lies in the prevention, rather than in the cure of disease. Why not retain a medical adviser at a reason able rate to keep you and your family well rather than incure the severe expense and restless anxiety involved in successive periods of illness? Most folks can stay well most of the time if they constantly live according to the best advice of competent physicians.

FORTUNE'S FOOL

BY RAFAEL SABATINI

ILLUSTRATED BY R. W. SATTERFIELD

© RAFAEL SABATINI 1923 — RELEASED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Colonel Holles, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, the land of his birth, when war is declared with Holland. He comes to lodge with Martha Quinn, hostess of the Paul's Head, in Paul's Yard, London.

The colonel asks his old friend, His Grace of Albemarle, to secure for him a place in the army. Albemarle warns him that the name of Randal Holles, father of the colonel, is on the warrant for the execution of the late king. Therefore it is dangerous for the colonel to secure a commission.

Holles meets a friend named Tucker on the street. A street preacher is loudly lamenting the rapid spread of the pestilence. Holles goes to Tucker's home and is asked to enter a conspiracy to overthrow the government. Holles promises to think over the proposition.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"You overstate the case. Though much that you have said of him may be true, I will not yet despair of the help of Albemarle."

"Why, you blind madman, I tell you—I swear to you—that in a very little while Albemarle will be beyond helping any man, beyond helping even himself."

Holles was about to speak, when Tucker threw up a hand to arrest him.

"Do not answer me now. Let what I have said sink home into your wits. Give it thought. We are not pressed for a few days. Ponder my words, and if as the days pass and no further news comes to you from Whitehall—no fulfillment of this airy promise—perhaps you will regard things differently, and come to see where your interest really lies. Meanwhile, Randal, the bottle's not half done. So sit you down again and let us talk of other matters."

Going home toward dusk the thing that most intrigued the Colonel was the dangerous frankness that Tucker had used with him, trusting a man in his desperate case with a secret so weighty upon no more than his pledged word and what Tucker remembered of him in the creditable state from which he had long since fallen. Reflection, however, diminished his wonder. Tucker had divulged no facts whose betrayal could seriously impair the plotters. He had mentioned no names; he had no more than vaguely alluded to a directing mind in Holland, which the Colonel guessed to be Algernon Sidney's, who was beyond the reach of the Stuart arm. For the rest, what had he told him? That there was a serious movement afoot to overthrow the Stuart dynasty, and restore the Commonwealth. Let Holles carry that tale to the authorities, and what would happen? He could impeach by name no man but Tucker; and all he could say of Tucker was that Tucker had told him these things. Tucker's word would be as good as Holles' before a justice. On the score of credit, Holles' antecedents would be the subject of inquiry, and the revelation of them would result in danger to himself alone.

Tucker had not been as ingenuous and confiding as he had at first supposed. He laughed a little to himself at his own simplicity. Then laughed again as he reviewed the proposal Tucker had made him. He might be desperate, but not desperate enough for that—not yet. He caressed his neck affectionately. He had no mind to feel a rope tightening about it. Nor would he yet despair because of what Tucker, largely for the purposes of his own advocacy, had said of Albemarle. The more he considered it, away from Tucker now, the more persuaded was he of Albemarle's sincerity and good intentions.

CHAPTER VI
Mr. Etheredge Prescribes

ON his return to the Paul's Head from that treasonable talk with Tucker, the Colonel found a considerable excitement presiding over that usually peaceful and well-conducted hostelry. The common room was thronged, which was not in itself odd, considering the time of day; what was odd was the noisy, vehement babble of the normally quiet, soberly spoken merchants who for the main part composed its custom.

Mrs. Quinn had a coy glance for the Colonel as he stalked through. It was not long before she followed him into the little parlor at the back, where she found him stretched at his ease on his favorite seat under the window, having cast aside sword and hat. He was in the act of loading a pipe from a leaden tobacco-jar.

"Lord, Colonel! Here be dreadful news," she told him.

"You'll have heard?" she added. "It is the talk of the Town."

He shook his head. "Nay, I heard nothing dreadful. I met a friend, an old friend, over there by the Flower of Luce, and I've been with him these three hours. I talked to no one else. What is this news?"

But she was frowning as she

looked at him scrutinisingly with her round blue eyes. Her mind was shifted by his light words to her own more immediate concerns. He had met a friend—an old friend. Not much in that to arouse anxiety, perhaps. But Mrs. Quinn moved now in constant dread of influences that might set the Colonel on a sound worldly footing likely to emancipate him from his dependence upon herself. She had skilfully drawn from him enough of the details of his interview with Albemarle to realize that the help upon which he counted from that quarter had not been forthcoming. He had been put off with vague promises, and Mrs. Quinn knew enough of her world not to be greatly perturbed by that. None the less she would have set all doubts at rest by leading the Colonel into the relationship in which she desired to hold him, but that as yet the Colonel manifested no clear disposition to be led. And she was too crafty a huntress to scare her quarry by premature and too direct an onslaught. The only anxiety, yielding to which she might have committed that imprudence, was on the score of the unexpected. She knew that the unexpected will sometimes happen, and this mention of a friend—an old friend, with whom he had spent some hours in intimate talk—was disquieting. She would have liked to question him on the subject of that friend, and might have done so but for his insistent repetition of the question:

"What is this news?"

Recalled to it thus, the gravity of the news itself thrust out the other matter from her mind.

"That the plague has broken out in the City itself—in a house in Bearbinder Lane. It was brought by a Frenchman from Long Acre, where he lived, and which he left upon finding the pestilence to be growing in his neighborhood. Yet it seems he was already taken with the disease, which now the wretch has brought to our threshold, as it were, without benefit to himself."

The Colonel thought of Tucker and his scaremongering emissaries.

"Perhaps it is not true," said he.

"Aye, but it is. Beyond a doubt. It was put about by a preacher rogue from the steps of Paul's today. At first folk did not believe him. But they went to Bearbinder Lane, and there found the house shut up, and guarded by command of my Lord Mayor. And they do say that Sir John Lawrence is gone to Whitehall to take order about this, to concert measures for staying the spread of the pestilence; they are to close playhouses and all other places where people come together, which will likely mean that they will be closing taverns and eating-houses. And what should I do in that case?"

"Nay, nay," Holles comforted her. "It will hardly come to that. Men must eat and drink or they starve, and that's as bad as the pestilence."

"To be sure it is. But they'll never think of that in their zeal and their sudden godliness—for they'll be in a muck-sweat o' godliness now that they see what a visitation has been brought upon us by the vices of the Court. And this to happen at such a time, with the Dutch fleet, as they say, about to attack the coast!"

She railed on. Disturbed out of her self-centered existence into a consideration of the world's ills now that she found herself menaced by them, she displayed a prodigious volubility upon topics that hitherto she had completely ignored.

And the substance of her news was true enough. The Lord Mayor was at that very moment at Whitehall urging immediate and drastic measures for combating the spread of the pestilence, and one of these measures was the instant closing of the playhouses. Whitehall's mind at the moment was over-full of other matters: there were these rumors that the Dutch fleet was out, and that was quite sufficient to engage such time and attention as could be spared from pleasure by the nation's elect, following in the footsteps of their pleasure-loving King. Also a good many of the nation's elect were exercised at the time by personal grievances in connection with the fleet and the war. Of these perhaps the most disgruntled was His Grace of Buckingham.

He had requested the command of a ship, a position to which his rank and his talents fully entitled him, in his own view. That such a request would be refused had never entered his calculations. But refused it was. There were two factors working against him. The first was that the Duke of York cordially disliked him and neglected no chance of mortifying him; the second was that the Duke of York, being Lord Admiral of the Fleet, desired to take no risks. There were many good positions from which capable naval men could be excluded to make way for sprigs of the nobility. But the command of a man-of-war was not one of these. Buckingham was offered a gun-brig. Considering that the offer came from the King's brother, he could not resent it in the terms his hot blood prompted. But what he could do to mark his scorn, he did. He refused the gun-brig, and enlisted as a volunteer aboard a flag-ship. But here at once a fresh complication arose. As a Privy Councillor he claimed the right of seat and voice in all councils of war, in which capacity it is probable he might have done even more damage than in command of one of the great ships. Again the Duke of York's opposition foiled him, whereupon in a rage he posted from Portsmouth to Whitehall to lay his plaint before his crony the King. The Merry Monarch may have wavered; it may have vexed him not to be able to satisfy the handsome rake who understood so well the arts of loosening laughter; but between his own brother and Buckingham there can have been no choice. And so Charles could not help him.

Davenport and Mumford to Open Ill. State Institute

Dr. Eugene Davenport, of Woodland Michigan, and H. W. Mumford, dean of agriculture of the Illinois College of Agriculture, are the speakers at the opening session of the Illinois State Farmers' Institute at its 29th annual meeting scheduled for Dixon, February 19, 20 and 21. Excursion rates of fare and one-half for round-trip from all Illinois points and St. Louis, Mo., to Dixon for this convention will enable farmers to attend easily and cheaply. The local railroad ticket agents are authorized to sell round trip tickets to Dixon, February 18 to 21, inclusive, at the price of fare and one-half.

Illinois Farmers know Dr. Davenport and Dean Mumford. For over a quarter of a century Dean Davenport directed agricultural education and investigation at the University of Illinois, retiring over a year ago. Dean Mumford for many years headed the animal husbandry department of the State College of Agriculture and is internationally known for his great services to the live stock producing industry of the country, succeeded Dr. Davenport as dean of agriculture.

These two men have been identified with the Farmers' Institute of Illinois during a large portion of its 29 years' service to Illinois agriculture, and their efforts and work in the development of the experiment station and agricultural college have in turn always been strongly supported by the Institute. They, with the late Dr. Hopkins whose monumental work in soil investigation made him a world authority, have contributed to nearly every program of the State Institute since its organization nearly hirty years ago. Dr. Davenport will speak on "Permonency in American Agriculture," and Dean Mumford will discuss the subject of "World Agriculture."

The "Hopkins Memorial" also finds a place on the opening program at Dixon, February 19.

The afternoon session of the first day contains a varied interest to farmers. Prof. L. F. Graber, of the Wisconsin Agricultural College, will discuss "Alfalfa Guide Posts to Better Times"; Dr. Chas. F. Hottes of the University of Illinois will speak on "Factors in Plant Growth," and Chas. A. Ewing of Decatur, will discuss the subject, "Farmer and Citizen." Mr. Ewing is a practical farmer operating one of the largest farm holdings in the state and has made a special study of economic factors and the management involved in large-scale farming under Corn Belt conditions. Ralph Allen of Delavan, president of the State Farmers' Institute, will preside at the meeting and deliver his annual address. Mr. Allen is a practical farmer, handling a large area of land and for many years has been prominently identified with the work of the state institute. In the evening of the first day, Mr. Lorado Taft, of Chicago, world famous sculptor and authority on are subjects, will lecture on "The Beauties of Illinois."

The city of Dixon is preparing to entertain many visitors from all parts of the state during this important farm convention. Delegations are expected from practically every county in Illinois. In many counties groups are being formed by the local farm bureau for attendance at the Dixon meeting, February 19, 20 and 21.

LEE CO. FARM BUREAU NOTES

SHIPPERS SAVE $130,000.

Shippers of livestock in Illinois were saved over $130,000 in commission in 1923 through refunds secured by patronizing co-operative commission agencies operating under the National Live Stock Producers Association according to word received from the Illinois Agricultural Association by the Lee County Farm Bureau.

This saving was realized on 17,431 carloads of livestock shipped to seven of the fourteen Producers agencies. With this volume, Illinois stood first among the 29 states patronizing Producers agencies in 1923, shipping 25.2 percent of the total business of these companies.

All Producers agencies handled 69,101 cars of livestock during the year, a total of 4,831,074 head, with a gross value of $90,073,623.25. This was 8.4 per cent of the total value of business done on the markets where the Producers operated.

The first Producers agency opened at East St. Louis early in January, 1922. Six agencies opened that year and handled 18,590 cars of stock valued at $26,688,363.17. Comparing the number of cars handled in 1922 with those in 1923, there was an increase of 271 per cent in volume of business.

"Farmers in Lee county patronize the Producers agencies at Chicago," states Farm Advisor Griffith. The principal Producers agencies which Illinois shippers consign livestock to are at Chicago, East Louis, Indianapolis and Peoria. The Illinois Agricultural Association, our state farm bureau, was instrumental in helping to start these agencies.

DIXON'S SECOND ANNUAL AUTO SHOW MARCH 6, 7, 8

EVERY DEALER IN CITY JOINS IN COMING SHOW

Will be Held in Newly Remodeled Mosher Garage Building

Dixon's second auto show, which dealers proclaim will be the greatest ever held in this part of the state, has been planned by the Automobile Dealers' division of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce, to be held in the newly remodelled Mosher Motor Company's garage on Second street, just adjacent the city hall.

The dates for the show have been set as March 6, 7 and 8, and every automobile, accessory and oil dealer in the city will take part in the plans to make the show one of measure future similar events by.

George Murray has been appointed chairman of the executive committee in charge of the show, and he is now at work arranging h iosther committees and the detailed arrangements for the exhibition. John W. Duffy and Mr. Mosher will have charge of the financing and awards to be given during the three days and evenings; R. F. Kline and Mr. Collins will be in charge of the decorations and Messrs Mosher, Hoyle and Santee will arrange the spacing allotments. Other committees had not been completed last evening, and will be announced later, it was said.

The garage has just undergone complete remodelling and today is one of the few garages in cities the size of Dixon in which the "ramp" system of elevating cars is employed. The entrance to the building has been changed and now the entire three floors of the building are available through use of concrete spiral inclines.

The word for the show is "Let's Go". It's going to be the biggest thing of its kind ever held in Dixon.

Five Million This Year is Dealers' Cry

Chicago—If the same ratio in maintained in their sale, 3,500,000 cars will be marketed through small down payments and the balance in six or eighteen months, say statisticians of the National Automobile Dealers' Association.

In 1923, their figures reveal, 70 percent of the 4,000,000 automobiles sold in the United States were marketed on the time payment plan. From the early quotas requested from factories the production scheduled for American automobile plants in 1924 will run over the 5,000,000 mark.

ARTISTIC BOOTBLACK.

PPARIS.—One of the bootblocks on the boulevards now uses a palette when shining or cleaning women's shoes.

The Parisian woman's shoes vary so much in color that the bootblack found it diffficult to get the right hue of boot cream to match.

So on his palette he puts a number of different creams and mixes them up when occasion demands.

RESERVES WERE THERE!

Manchester, Eng.—Twenty prison matrons formed a guard of honor at the wedding of Miss H. Heselton, a wardress at Strangeways Jail, and Constable Heysham of the Manchester police. Uniformed comrades of both the bride and groom filled the church.

A white-handled table knife was found in the stomach of a five-pound trout recently caught in a Scottish stream by a Liverpool angler.

Motorist is Bled in Nineteen Ways

Chicago—There are nineteen different methods of taking money away from the automobile owner in this country in the form of special taxes, as indicated by a preliminary made by the American Automobile association.

No motorist escapes paying less than six of these taxes, and many pay as high as fifteen. The aggregate of the taxes motoristspay is well over the half billion mark annually.

As evidence of the variety of taxes assessed against the motorist, there are five bases of registration in the different states, namely, horsepower, weight, list price, piston displacement and a flat rate.

A personal property tax is paid on the automobile in all but fourteen of the states.

There are now thirty-five states which have a gasoline tax, and in all of these the gasoline tax is in addition to the registration fee, except in California.

FAMILY DOCTOR BOOK EXTINCT SAYS RAWLINGS

Getting Well is Distinctly Personal Matter, He Says.

Springfield, Feb. 13.—The old-time family doctor book, the one time household necessity, is almost as extinct today as the muzzle loading shotguns of yesteryear. In its place has come a demand for long distance medical service as manifested in newspaper health columns, magazine articles and radio messages. At least this is the feeling of Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, state health director, who opines that the situation is one of distinct advancement but still fraught with danger.

"To get well is distinctly a personal matter and requires consideration as such," said the director in a statement made public today. "General principles and general rules of hygiene can be laid down through correspondence, newspaper or otherwise, but when it comes to a specific problem the case is one for individual attention. Literature and letters on keeping well and getting well are simply the artillery of medicine that keeps back the army of germs and disease until the infantry of personal service can conquer the enemy in a hand-ot-hand engagement.

"No doctor can render an accurate and worthy diagnosis by letter or other long distance communication without having first seen and examined the patient, looked into his history and studied his environment and habits. Almost anyone can learn, by reading, how to give reasonable care to his automobile, but it takes the services of a mechanic to make it go when it won't, and to insure long life. The same thing is true with regard to the health of the human body and medical service.

"A competent doctor never attempts to make a long distance diagnosis. The best that he can do is to offer suggestions and to lay down general principals. On the other hand the quacks respond to any contingency that may arise and thus have frequently been subjected to the hoax of rendering serious and learned diagnoses on the strength of innocent specimens from lower animals.

"Everybody ought to read, understand and practice the great fundamental principles and rules of hygiene. For the most part health columns, official pamphlets, and books and articles by reliable and competent authors deal with these. When it comes to treatment, however, there is no substitute for the personal service of a complete physician."

English housewives have found melted butter a good substitute for olive oil in the preparation of salad dressing.

JACK SHIFTS CAR INTO PARKING SPACE WITHOUT TROUBLE OF MANEUVERING

By NEA Service

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 13.—Soon we shall observe large automobiles sidling easily and quickly into parking spaces only as long as the cars themselves, if the invention of Victor P. Williams of this city is adopted generally.

Nomore toiling back and forth to get into a space slightly longer than the car, if Williams' appliance is attached.

It consists of a four-wheel hydraulic jacking device, which lifts the car from the street three inches in a few seconds. The whole affair is attached permanently to the chassis and geared up with the transmission, so that the engine itself lets down the jack, lifts the car and then moves it sideways into the opening.

By its use, Williams says, space is saved, and considerable wear and tear on the tires eliminated.

The framework of the hydraulic jack weighs less than 100 pounds and its installation, if done on a quantity basis, would be no more than $100 per car, claims the inventor.

A lever, similar to the speed control, operates the brake. Both levers have to be neutral before one can be operated. Thus any liability of accident, or clashing of both controls, is avoided.

Williams, a graduate mechanical engineer from a French school, has worked on this device for the last eight years and triumphed only last November, when he got his patent for this country.

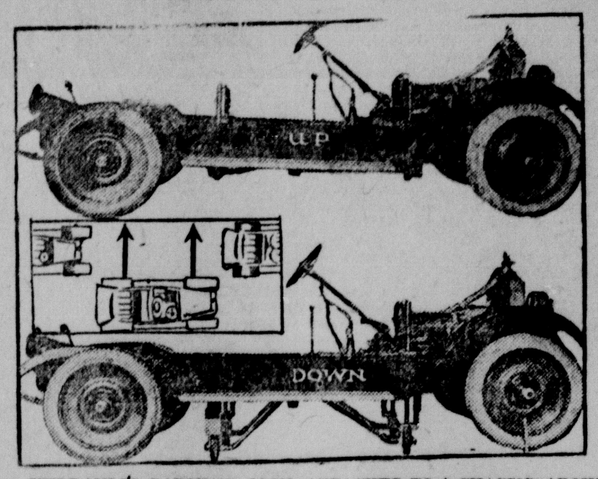

The new jack is being demonstrated here on a Moon chassis, while automotive engineers connected with other large manufacturing firms are considering its adoption as a permanent feature on their product.

CHILDREN'S LICENSES

Children driving toy automobiles, if the cars are propelled by any power other than muscular, must get a license like those of their fathers, in Connecticut. Parents have been buying many toy gasoline autos for their children so that this ruling had to be made.

FEDERAL AID ROADS

Ten years from now, according to the law now in effect, we may expect to have 202,170 m ioself completed, well-paved highways in this country. At present there are only about 27,000 miles of such roads. The federal-aid system calls for this work in co-operation with the states.

BIG AUTO BUYER

Australia is one of America's best customers in the automotive field. In 1922 the country bought more than $23,000,000 worth of autos and parts from this country. About one out of every three makes of American cars may be found in Australia.

CARS PREDOMINATE

There are more automobiles in Texas than telephones, according to a recent comparison of state motor vehicle registration and statistics of telephone companies. Against 525,000 telephones there were more than 600,000 licenses for motor vehicles last year.

CAN YOU ANSWER THESE QUERIES?

If you can answer these questions correctly you may feel safe in driving anywhere.

They were suggested for the drivers of Cleveland, O., by the Cleveland Safety Council, but are applicable anywhere else.

If you cannot answer them to your own satisfaction, go to the nearest police station, ask for a copy of the traffic code and study it. It will save you from trouble:

How fast may I drive?

When may I pass a standing street car?

How may I pass a street car?

How may I turn to the left on an intersecting street?

When have I the right of way?

WIND RESISTANCE

Riding at 30 miles an hour, a touring car with the top up meets an additional wind desistance of 157 pounds, even with the air calm. Engineers discovered this on testing the riding qualities of a car with the top up and the top down.

16,000,000 AUTOS

From 1895 to 1923, American manufacturers produced more than 16,000,000 motor vehicles. Of these, 80 per cent were produced in the last seven years, 60 percent in the last five years, and 16 per cent last year.

FEDERAL GAS TAX

Auto club officials are preparing to voice opposition against numerous proposals in Congress for the passage of a federal gasoline tax. Thirty-six states already have such a tax of from one to three cents on every gallon bought.

WOMEN, ALWAYS!

London—Yes, the women were vain 2000 years ago.

They liked to primp just as much as the women of today.

A bronze hand mirror, just presented to the British Museum, testifies to that. It is believed to have been used by a Celtic lady of fashion about the time of Caesar's invasion in 55 B. C.

MOTOR FASHIONS RIVAL FLAPPERS, DESIGNERS SAY

Styles of Industry Are as Changeable as Feminine Apparel.

The motor car of today is just as different from that of twenty years ago as are the flappers and sheiks of 1924 from the sirens and swains of 1904.

Looking over the old catalogs of automobile manufacturers who have been in business over a long period of years, produces, therefore, the same sensation as that awakened in perusing the old family photograph album.

Some of the things termed "the last word" in automobiles of the 1904 regime appear quite as humorous as the cut of Uncle Charlie's coat or Aunt Mary's bodice as proudly exploited in the pictures of our ancestors.

"Best in Creative Genius"

Representative of the motor car makers in business twenty years ago take a certain catalog of 1905. We find that the then current model represented "the best thought that creative genius of its inventors" and embodied "every feature and advantage of the latest foerign and American inventions." For particulars we find that these included a two cylinder engine that "will take on high any hill that we have been able to find suitable or safe for automobiling.

We also find that the frame was of "angle iron, with cross supports and corners reinforced,' an individual oil pump for each bearing," "two speed sun and planet type of transmission," ignition by magneto" and "a safety cranking device." We learn that the body was built of wood, that it had two individual front seats with doors to the rear seats on "curved brass hinges."

Then we look at the picture of this creation—we 1924 wiseacres—and laugh. Just because the car we now know is, by way of contrast, a six or four cylinder engine, that the frame is of "reinforced channel steel, with four heavy cross members," that it has a "self lubricating" motor, "selective sliding gear type of transmission, with three speeds forward and one reverse," ignition by "high tension electric generator and storage battery" and, of course, "an electric self starter."

Then and Now

The body of this progeny of the now comical 1904 has nothing in common with the construction of the latter. It is of steel, and there are enclosed ones with the comforts and conveniences of a miniature drawing room.

Observing these two masterpieces of widely separated vintage, one can not but contemplate the wonderful advances intervening between the advent of the one and the other.

LET'S LIGHT UP!

LONDON.—Well, boys, we can keep on smoking our fags.

Thirty cigarets don't produce any more nicotine in our blood than one cigar, according to a well known London physician.

Twenty "pills," says this good kind doctor, however, puts 5 per cent of our blood out of play. But 50 can be consumed without any noticeable result, for our systems, by the time we get around to No. 50, have developed an attitude of tolerance.

PRINCE IN NEW OUTFIT.

LONDON.—In the recent Tec H. lamp-lighting ceremony at the city of London guild hall, the Prince of Wales came attired in a blazer, soft collar and gray flannel trousers. He still is regarded as England's best dressed man.

SWEETBREAD SHORTAGE

London—Owing to the demand by manufacturers of insulin, the new cure for diabetes, calves' sweetbreads have almost disappeared from the English menu.

BUYERS THIS YEAR ARE NOT HOLDING OFF

Many Are Placing Orders for Cars During February.

"More motorists are placing their winter orders for spring delivery of new cars than ever before," says a well known local dealer.

"So many buyers were disappointed last year in the purchase and delivery of new cars, that this year our salesmen are finding it a comparatively easy task to book orders now for March and April delivery.

"A report just issued from our factory shows there are fewer new cars in the hands of dealers today than on the corresponding day last year. Every spring we experience a shortage of new cars, and in another month or so will be unable to make prompt deliveries."

The automobile editor in his weekly survey of local conditions found this shortage with standard car dealers an annual affair. Dixon motorists, who do not want to be disappointed this spring in securing delivery of their favorite car, should heed the warnings of the local dealers.

"AUTOMOBILE FOOT"

It's Cramp—Caused By Motor Improvements

Improvements have made driving so easy for the motorist that a new malady has been reported.

It's called "Automobile foot,' and it's directly attributed to holding the foot too long on the accelerator.

In former years a driver had no chance to do this. A puncture or blow out would get his foot off the throttle in a hurry. And he would have a good chance to get out and stretch himself.

But now with less tire trouble and fewer engine mishaps, the autoist has been able to continue in his seat, with his right foot in one position so long that it would become cramped. Result —"Automobile foot."

No Chance to Stretch

Of course, there may be a mishap now and then, but their correction has been reduced to so little time and effort, that the foot has hardly had a chance to rest before it finds itself back in its former position at the pedal.

And things are getting worse for the poor right foot. Inventors are busy trying to reduce tire trouble, its most saving feature, to a minimum. In fact, one inventor has come out with a plan by which punctures may occur without forcing the driver to leave his seat to repair them.

A Chicago man is responsible for this additional cause for "Automobile foot." It's a valveless inner tube, in which a gummy mixture that flows to any opening made by a puncture and closes it up almost immediately. Somewhat like "Never-leak" in bicycle tires.

Air by Injection

That prevents further escape of air.

THE "HYPODERMIC NEEDLE" INJECTED INTO CASING AND VALVELESS TUBE FOR FILLING THE LATTER WITH AIR.

But if the air does happen to escape altogether, the inventor has designed a sort of hypodermic needle which he sticks through casing and tube and through which the air is forced into the tube. When the needle is withdrawn the gummy substance plugs up the hole.

Clever. Simple. But, oh that "Automobile foot!"

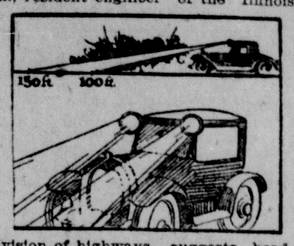

With the coming of fair weather, matters look pretty bad for your right foot—if you don't get out and stretch every once in a while. Tourists, especially, should beware of long country rides without resting that foot.

CARBURETOR GOING

The car of the future will have no carburetor, says Ralph Mulford, famous racing driver. The fuel injection principle oft he Diesel engine has already been tried with airplane engines. The fuel is forced into the cylinder in the right quantity just when the piston has compressed a volume of air.

HEADLIGHTS UP HIGHER

In a letter to Engineering News-Record, John C. Allman of Carbondale, Ill., resident engineer of the Illinois division of highways, suggests headlights would prove more efficient if placed at the upper corners of the windshield, as shown here, instead of their present positions. Directed downward, they could give illumination at 100 to 150 feet fromt he car and still keep their rays out of the eyes of oncoming motorists. One of the lights could be made movable.

It's tough to be in a crowd of radio and mah jongg fans when you understand only English.—Brooklyn Eagle.

GAP IN HIGHWAY WEST FREEPORT WILL BE CLOSED

State Asks That Right of Way Be Secured Immediately.

Freeport, Feb. 13—That the gap now existing in the Grant highway, west of Freeport at what is known as "Preston's Bottom" is to be filled and paved this year is indicated by word received from the state department of highways. Notice was sent to County Superintendent of Highways O. G. Hiveley to the effect that the right of way should be secured as the department is anxious to complete the paving at that point. There is now a gap of about three-quarters of a mile in the paving on that highway the road having not been laid there last year because of the fact that the state and the Illinois Central railroad company could not agree as to a culvert or subway. It is understood that an agreement has practically been reached now and that the road will be completed.

It seems certain that the gap will be closed to within about seventy-five feet on either side of the railroad track and if a definite agreement is reached, as expected, the entire gap will be paved. The subway will be about eight hundred feet east of the present subway this tending to straighten out the road and eliminate the dangerous curves at that point. It was stated that no trouble was anticipated in securing the right of way and consequently it appears that the road will be completed. This will be good news to the motorists as the existing gap is an unusually bad piece of road and at times also dangerous.

Rickenbacker

A CAR WORTHY OF ITS NAME

There Won't Be Enough To Go Around

It may seem a little early to issue the seasonal warning, to buy your Car now, pay a deposit, and secure a definite delivery date.

But if you would have a Rickenbacker Six for early delivery:

If in other words you covet the same car that tens of thousands of other well-informed persons have determined upon for their next:—

Then we assure you, there isn't an hour to lose.

Factory issues almost daily, warnings that orders are coming in at an unprecedented rate from all distributing points.

This means that we cannot hope to get one Rickenbacker more than our monthly quota.

This is a wonderful condition of course, but it has its disadvantages.

We'd like to be able to deliver every customer in our territory, a Rickenbacker Six of whatever model he prefers and on the day he would like to receive it.

But that is manifestly impossible.

Rickenbacker is a quality Car—even though the price is that of an ordinary car of same size and power.

Output is limited—intentionally so.

Rickenbacker is more interested in building them right than in turning them out fast.

Here it is early February—and yet the factory tells us they are 1,000 cars behind orders.

What will Spring with its deluge of orders bring?

We can only guess by comparing with last year.

Demand in the height of the season was easily four times the possible supply.

And you know that Rickenbacker has gained in popularity at a tremendous rate from month to month.

We have said this car is first choice of the cognoscenti.

That's a big word, but it means those who are best informed on motor cars and who are the most intelligent buyers.

To be seen in a Rickenbacker Six is to be classed with the Elect—those who appreciate the most advanced engineering, and a car that, as it comes to you, leaves "Nothing Else To Buy."

There is no other to compare with this famous car—for in none other do you find all these superiorities:—

Vibrationless Motor, with two fly wheels; Air Cleaner; Double Depth Frame; "Cradle Springs;" Ball Bearing steering; and internal expanding, mechanically actuated 4-Wheel Brakes.

Some of these you find in late models of other cars—but all of them you find only in the car where they originated—this Rickenbacker Six.

But you already know that, doubtless.

This ad is to warn you, as forcibly as we possibly can, that your order must be placed soon if you would hope for an early spring delivery.

May we suggest that—today won't be a minute too soon!

LETTER FROM KARL WHITNEY TO MRS. JOHN ALDEN PRESOTT

MY DEAR LESLIE:

I am glad you were able to settle that business of your pearl necklace to your satisfaction. Alice and I have talked about you a great deal of late. You would be surprised to know how mature she has grown. She was quite the most beautiful girl that was presented at court the other day. All the eligible young men in town were at the Stokley's afterward. They gave a ball, you know, at that time and all the young men hung around your sister like bees about honey.

It makes me feel rather old when I see these youngsters growing up. I expect pretty soon "Uncle" Karl will be visiting all of them and buying Christmas for their kids. Alice is very anxious to see your boy. Your mother and father say he is a splendid baby.

You will be glad to know that your father is looking and feeling very much better, and both he anr your mother seem to be enjoying London society very much.

I am leaving soon for Italy, where I will remain until spring. I think I shall return however, with your father and mother and Alice. Home is beginning to look good to me.

Don't worry any more about those paltry pearl beads or you will make me wish Alice had not given them to you. When I see you we will have a long talk about them and I will tell you how I happener to be concerned in the matter.

Sincerely and devotedly,
Your friend,
KARL WHITNEY.

In All the World No Car Like This

JEWETT TOURING CAR

The ideal combination of Roomy Comfort and Convenient Size—Sturdy Construction—Wonderful Power—Amazing Performance—Moderately Priced.

The new Jewett Six is the final type of car for the average motorist. Most people want a car of roomy comfort for the average load—of convenient size that lightens the driver's task in traffic—a car so sturdy that repair bills are rare—and powered to give satisfactory performance—Big Six performance.

You can turn your Jewett around in a 42-foot street and park in a 16½-foot space at the curb. Think of these advantages when combined with such generous passenger room in the car.

But the greatest thrill of all for a Jewett owner is in the performance of the car. Jewett's powerful six cylinder motor, with its fifty horse power, easily passes most any car on a hill. From 2 to 60 miles an hour or more on high, easily. Jewett's most extraordinary power for weight accounts for its extraordinary quick-footedness. Easy to drive. Just seems to drive itself.

In all the world no car like this.

ENROLLMENTS OF HIGH SCHOOLS IN STATE INCREASES

State Supt. Blair Says More Pupils Enter Higher Schools.

Springfield, Feb. 6—More grammar school pupils in Illinois went on to high school this year than ever before, according to Francis G. Blair, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. "Eighth grade pupils in Illinois," he said, "are playing an important part in the state's educational program."

Public school enrollment generally is increasing, Mr. Blair added. "The enrollment in elementary grades was marked by an increase of 16.62 percent from 1913 to 1922, while the population of the state has increased only 15.01 percent." There is an unprecedented increase in high school enrollment and a great increase in graduation of eighth grade students, which have a cause and effect relation.

"Doubtless many more than 41,361 pupils passed successfully from common branches of school work in 1913, but it was not so important at that time to make a record and to report the same as in 1922. Also it is inevitable that a rather large increase of pupils remain in school for the work of the Seventh and Eighth grades as a result of the increasing numbers who desire a high school education."

"Percentage of increase in the total average daily attendance when compared to the increase in enrollment, shows improvement in the case of high schools but a slight fall in the case of elementary schools, Mr. Blair said.

"This is explained as follows:" he added. "A change in the method of arriving at the average daily attendance put into effect in 1920 reduced the percentage of perfect attendance. Had the method in use in 1913 been employed in 1922 the average daily attendance would have been reported considerably larger thus showing an increase in the percentage of daily attendance. Also it is impossible to obtain as high a percentage of perfect attendance in the elementary schools as in the high schools.

In 1913 the average high school pupil was in school 20 days longer than the average elementary school pupil, Mr. Blair said, adding that in 1922 the excess was only 15 days and that the law requiring seven months term largely accounts for this improvement in the elementary schools.

DEDUCTIONS FOR CAR CAN ONLY BE MADE ON BUSINESS

Treasury Department's Ruling on Mooted Question Made.

Deductions allowed taxpayers in connection with life maintenance and operation of automobiles are the subject of requent inquiries from taxpayers in filling an income tax return. The following is for the guidance of owners and prospective owners:

Such cost—for garage bills, gasoline, repairs, etc.—may be deducated as a business expense when an automobile is used wholly for business purposes, or in trade, profession, or farming. When used partly for such purposes and partly for the pleasure or convenience of the taxpayer and his family, the cost may be prorated and that part attrabutable to business or the other pursuits mentioned deducted as a business expense.

The same rule applies with regard to the deduction for depreciation, which is allowed when an automobile is used wholly in business, trade profession or farming, and must be apportioned accordingly, when used partly for such purposes and party for pleasure. If an automobile is used almost exclusively for pleasure, a deduction for depreciation is not allowed.

The purchase price of an automobile, even when used wholly in business, cannot be deducted from gross income. It is a capital expenditure, deduction of which is expressly disallowed by the revenue act. The five per cent tax which attaches to the sale of an automobile cannot be deducted by the purchaser, because it is a tax levied on the sale oy the manufacturer, and must be returned and paid by him. The manufacturer may reimburse himself in the amount of the tax by agreement with the purchaser, in manner prescribed by Treasury regulations. So far as the purchaser is concerned, the tax is a part of the cost to him of the automobile. The manufacturer may not deduct the tax in his return, unless the amount is included in his gross income.

An automobile license fee is regarded as a tax, and may be deducted whether the automobile is used for business or for pleasure or convenience.

In the event of a collision between a truck and an automobile used for pleasure or convenience, the owner of the truck may claim a deduction for damages, provided the truck was being used for business at the time of the collision. No deduction is allowed the owner of the automobile, because it was not being used for pleasure or convenience in repairing damages thereto caused by negligent opration do not constitute deductible losses.

Taxpayers are advised not to delay in the filing of their returns. To do so results in confusion and congestion during the closing days of the filing period, which ends at midnight of March 15.

DIES OF SHOCK.

DUBLIN.—Mrs. Mary Hanrahan died from the shock of hearing the death sentence pronounced on Wm. Devereux for the murder of his sister-in-law with a hatchet. Mrs. Hanrahan, one of the principal witnesses at the trial, was taken ill when the judge passed sentence and died soon afterward.

IRISH MEMORIAL.

DUBLIN.—One of the first publicly unveiled memorials in the Irish Free States to men who fell in the World War has been unveiled by Viscount Powerscourt at Bray, near here.

KING PAYS FARE

Brussels—King Albert isn't too proud to ride in a street car. When his automobile broke down the other day, he got out, boarded a passing car and paid his fare just like any other passenger. He got off at the royal palace.

CHILDREN WELCOME!

Bradford, Eng.—Four unused classrooms in a school here are to be converted into living quarters for families ejected from apartment houses.

NO NIGHT CALLS!

Tuffe, Sarth, France—Oh, for the life of the municipal physician here!

Besides his salary, he receives premiums for helping villagers preserve their health.

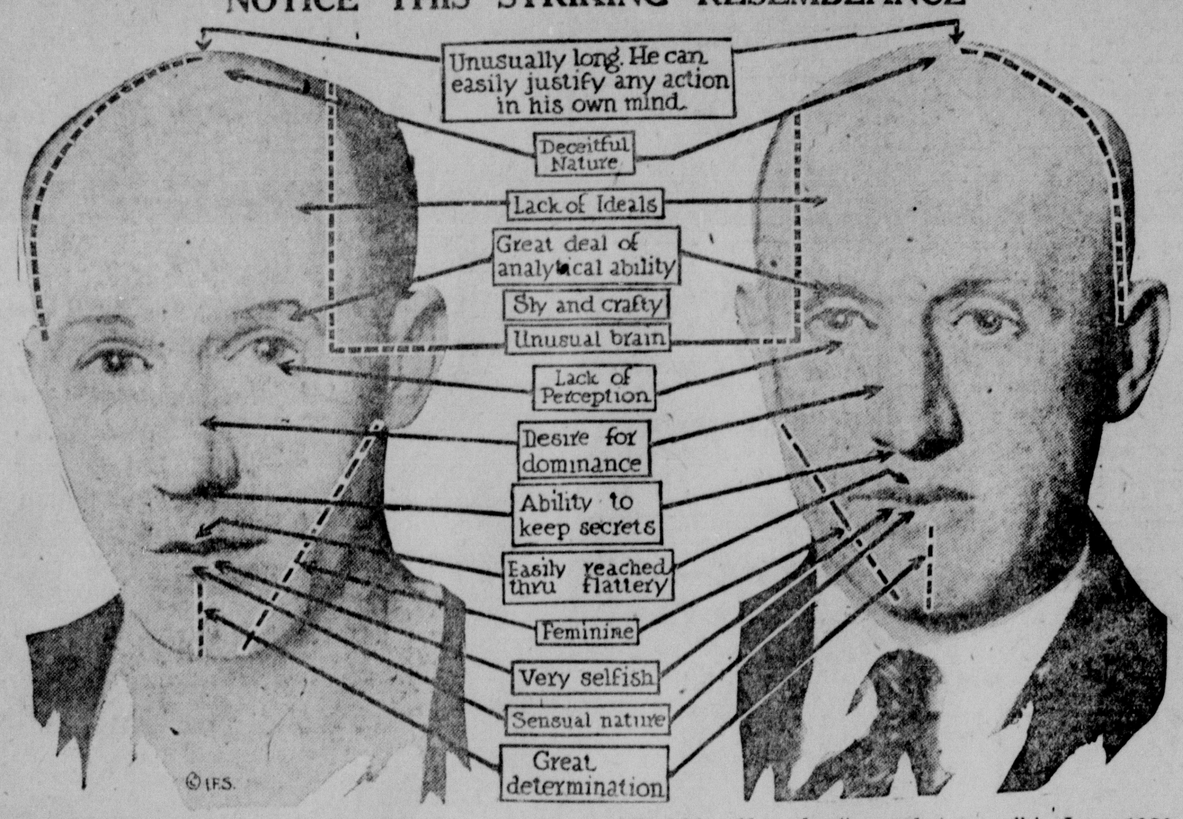

Better yet, he can refuse to attend those who've not obeyed his orders.

BOW ON BEING INTRODCED

When introduced, a man and a woman bow to each other slightly. They do not shake hands unless she offers hers.

More than three-fourths of the world's estimated stock of 42 tons of diamonds have been removed from African mines in the last 40 years.

NOTICE THIS STRIKING RESEMBLANCE

Do killers look alike? Here are Carl Wandered (left), who killed his wife and a "ragged stranger" in June, 1920, in Chicago, and Warren J. Lincoln (right), who has confessed to murdering his wife and brother-in-law in Aurora, Ill. The character analysis of the two men, used above, shows a striking resemblance in almost every facial feature.

DRAINAGE IS NOW MENACE TO GAME, SAYS ART EVANS

Waltons Find It More Dangerous Than Guns, Writer Says.

Migratory game in America today faces a greater danger from the exploiters of drained land projects than ever it did from the pot hunters in the era of the unlimited bag, says Arthur Evans in the Chicago Tribune. Bird and fish experts are shouting the warning.

The stopping of spring shooting a few years ago has brought a great increase in wild fowl. But their food supply is being decreased by the draining of marshes and feeding grounds to get land that in many instances raises nothing but cattails and bullrushes and does not pay the cost of reclaiming it.

The Boone and Crockett club, founded in 1887 by Theodore Roosevelt says that if the wiping out of the breeding and feeding grounds continues at its present rate, tremendous losses will soon occur in the number of wild ducks. The case of the passenger pigeon, once abundant, now almost extinct, is brought up as an object lesson.

Collect Drainage Data.

The Izaak Walton league, with 100,000 members, through its organ, "Outdoor America," which is concentrating its efforts in behalf of Senator McCormick's bill to create a 300 mile wild life sanctuary on the upper Mississippi from Rock Island, Ill., to Lake Pepin, Miss., has been gathering data on drainage projects that have failed. Particularly in the region traversed by two of the great water fowl flights, namely the Mississippi river and the great lakes-Illinois river routes.

The Trempealeau drainage failure, the spoiling of the great Horicon marsh, and the wrecking of the Kankakee marshes, are three cases cited as horrible examples of too much denaturing of nature.

Cite an Instance.

The Trempealeau district comprises some 7,000 acres of Mississippi bottom lands on the Wisconsin side between the villages of Trempealeau and Fountain City. It lies across the river from Winona, Minn.

Ten or twelve years ago this was a paradise for the hunter and fisherman. It was alive with mushkrat and mink, its sloughs were alive with game fish, its waters teemed with wild fowl. Along came speculators who bought up bottom lands cheap. A drainage district was organized and the water pumped off. Some farmers opposed it, saying the made land would not pay the expense of reclaiming it. Robert S. Cowie, attorney of LaCrosse, writes the Izaak Waltonians that some land owners who were put into the district on the theory of "expected benefits," say the land is not paying off.

Noxious Plants Alone Thrive.

Here is a vivid bit of description by Mr. Cowie:

"To one who loves nature the picture presented by the Trempealeau project is pitiful. The sloughs are usually empty of water, but the gaping hole is there waiting for the engineer who can tell how to fill it up with the dirt that is not there. The wild rice, wild celery, the lily beds and the lotus beds are gone, never to return, and in their place have come the thistle, the skunk wood and every other noxious plant that neither man, nor fowl nor beast desires.

"In spots the intrepid exploiter of this game paradise has touched the plow to the soil only to expose a lot of dirty white, useless sand. Not only that, but the water lies only four or five feet from the surface, where it has seeped in for ages. Gone are many of the stately trees so familiar to the hunter and trapper, and in their place are unsightly stumps or dead branches fit only for the resting place of the hoot owl, the crow or the hawk. The soil will not even keep these trees alive without the constant offluvial that comes with the regular floods.

Calls It Criminal.

"When one sees the thousands of perfectly good improved lands that are lying idle because of the surplus of farm products and the falling market, one is impressed more strongly than ever that such projects are not only fruitless but are well nigh criminal in their effect."

What happened to the Kankakee marshes, once the haunt of wild fowl, where Grover Cleveland sometimes came for the shooting, is still a mournful topic among sportsmen. The Laporte and Michigan City chapters of the Izaak Walton league are leading a fight to get some 2000 acres along the Kankakee set aside for a game refuge and public shooting ground. Claude S. Steele of Knox, Ind., has described the situation to the Waltonians.

"We are now spending thousands to bring the waters back to northern Indiana that a few years ago we spent thousands to drain away. The lakes around Laporte have become mud holes, a menace to health and often dumping grounds for rubbish. The cottages and resorts around them are becoming valueless, all due to the unwise drainage ditches, the deepening and widening of our rivers. Wells were drying up, lands becoming unfertile and thousand of other misfortunes that come to a waterless plain were beginnig to appear. Lawyers, dredgemen and land speculators are responsible. Many a farmer here has paid out more than his land is worth for drainage and still his land won't produce."

Horicon marsh, in Wisconsin, at the headwaters of Rock river, is cited as one of the greatest wrecks of an ancient wilderness paradise with no compensating return. Years ago this marsh of some 40,000 acres, four to six miles wide and fifteen miles long, was one of the greatest refuges in the middle west for fish and wild fowl, muskrats and mink. Some fifteen years ago drainage promotion struck the marsh and ruined the area for wild life. Feeding and breeding grounds were destroyed, migratory birds vanished, and the marsh today is a picture of desolation. It is described to the Waltonians by Fred Luening as follows:

"Pools and streams and bayous, ducks and geese and wilderness creatures are gone. Nor have farms come up in their place. Rather, there has grown up a tangle of cattails and weeds, giving of life or joy to neither man nor wilderness denizen.

Drainage Yiels Nothing.

"Clustered about the dead Horicon marsh are towns and villages—Horicon, Beaver Dam, Mayville, Waupun, Burnett, Juneau, and many others. In them dwell thousands who look daily uupon a drainage crime that has wrecked a virgin loveliness and given nothing in return. They know drainage has failed. They have seen the marsh in semi-drained state for fifteen years. Rnd they have come to learn that for all the beauty and wilderness charm that has been taken away from them there has been returned no single farm, no single crop worthy of the name."

The Waltonians are urging the restoration of Horicon lake, through the building of a dam at Horicon, as one of the first items to be considered by the government, of congress passes what is known as "the federal game refuge and public shooting ground" bill, which provides for the leasing or purchase of such grounds by the government out of sportsmen's license fees.

WARREN KEEPING BUSY WITH OGLE CO. FARM WORK

Report for January Shows Activities of His Bureau.

The Ogle County Farm Bureau has placed orders for 20,000 lbs. of high quality seeds for its members during the month of January, according to the monthly report of Advisor D. E. Warren, formerly of Lee county.

The object of this service in securing seeds is to obtain for the farmers clover and other seeds of good quality and without noxious weeds or other impurities at reasonable prices. By ordering in large quantities and paying cash a very satisfactory price has been obtained on these seeds.

The Farm Advisor held or attended 10 meetings during the month in various parts of the county. Four of them held at Rochelle, Stillman Valley, Forreston and Polo, at which a soil specialist from the University of Illinois was present, were for the purpose of work in soil fertility and will be followed up with some demonstration tours in the summer.

Two conferences outside of the county were attended, one, the annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Association at Galesburg, and the other a conference of the farm advisors of the state and other agricultural extension workers for the purpose of a week's study of cooperative marketing and various extension problems.

Plans for the coming month will include some work in seed corn culling, selection of the best utility type and the fitness of local seed for planting.

In summing up the work for the month, service was given through:

70 office calls.
60 phone calls.
1115 circular letters.
4000 copies of "Ogle County Farmer"
102 personal letters.
18 farm visits.
10 meetings in the county—250 in attendance.
2 meetings outside of county.
10 days in the field.
9 days in the office.
6 days out of the county.
20,000 lbs. of seeds ordered.
1 sample limestone tested.

"Scotty of Death Valley" is Back

By H. H. C.

You will all remember "Death Valley Scotty's" famous transcontinental railroad trip back in 1905. A lot of folks imagined this was pulled off by the Santa Fe, for advertising purposes—but I know better. I saw him pay the money over the counter—five one thousand dollar bills—and know he tried to induce the railroad company to let him try it again, but the risk was too great to the equipment for the amount of money received. So they turned him down.

The papers report he is "coming back" again—now as a farmer. Out along the Nevada-California line, near Bonnie Claire, Nev., Scotty has established "The Hole in the Wall," a ranch and resort that will cost, it is said, $300,000.00. From where comes Scotty's wealth is a mystery, but he has purchased, according to a deputy sheriff of Barstow (Calif.) $50,000 worth of trucks, fuel and supplies for an elaborate building to be known as "The Hall of Fame." Scotty will introduce his resort to his old friends—highbinders, he calls them—at a "One Big Night" affair, to be held at the "Hole in the Wall." The date has not been definitely decided upon. He has sent word to Barstow that he will arrive about Feb. 15th and call for his old friends. He is growing fruit on his ranch.

"Death Valley Scotty" is as picturesque as any character in western fiction. Carrying gold nuggests for money, Scotty came out of Death Valley in 1905 and chartered a Santa Fe train for a transcontinental journey, which made faster time over the mountains than it did in the prairie states. As mysteriously as he appeared, Scotty disappeared, going back to Death Valley. He always dressed in a long black overcoat, a black slouch hat and wore a flaring red necktie. We all had a chance to see him a great deal on the streets of Los Angeles at that time, but I never saw him drunk, (although he did drink) and he was always a gentleman when in the office, as he called several times before final arrangements were made for his train. He was not an educated man at all, but this can be said for him—he never let even one of his closest friends know the source of his wealth—and to this day it is unkown, although thought he might have something up there in the Funeral range—in the Panamint mountains. I met him on the street one noon and he said, "Come up to my room"—he was at that time maintaining two rooms in two different hotels, sleeping in one one night and the other the next—"I want to show you something." When we arrived he reached under the bed, pulled out an old worn suitcase, opened it up and there was gold quartz that would make any old miner's eyes bulge—gold was fairly oozing out of the rocks—from the size of a hen's egg up to as large as a small chunk of soft coal.

He knows Death Valley—that little known country of so many treasures and tragedies, where many a poor soul has died of thirst and been lost in the quest of gold—probably better than any other man living where he goes—always alone in the most desolute districts. Now Scotty comes back—bidding for fame—he always liked the notariety of it—as a rancher and owner of "The Hole in the Wall" and the "House of Fame."

He never would cut much of a figure as a Berry Wall, on Fashion Row, where they go to see and be seen; nor as a society man in a drawing room, where they go to talk and—ahem—be talked about; but—His friends do not doubt him. Scotty seldom lied, and no one knows to this day where he got the gold he so lavishly spent in the years gone by.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre At Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Your Health

by Dr. C. C. Robinson

THINKING HEALTH.

It is well to think well and divine to act well. All the thinking you may be able to produce will fail to advance you either mentally or physically if your acts concerning the use of misuse of your bodily powers are not shaped to carry out your ideal thoughts.

A body that is not too fat or too slim and is kept clean and healthy by right living should, under the proper environment, produce a vigorous mind that is full of clean, helpful thoughts. These thoughts shape your life and make or break it.

The attitude of thinking health is necessary to body building and normal development. A clean, active mind will have a deep regard for the preservation and control of the bodily health and strength. Life's stream depends for its renewal in those who come after us, on clean, healthy minds.

The sustaining qualities of the mind are so interwoven with bodily physique that the success or failure of your health condition is bound up in their co-operation.

Don't cause a let-down in your physical efficinecy by carelessness in your mental makeup. The day you decide to take it easy, or run along in a rut, that day you have started a physical decline.

If your health thinking is strong and active, the stimulus will show returns in healthy active bodies.

You can think yourself into many situations. Try it on health.

How to Get the Most Out of Your B Battery

By G. C. Furness
Radio Battery Engineer

HOW TUBES DRAW "B" BATTERY CURRENT

Actual figures showing the plate current of the different receiving tubes when used as audio frequency amplifiers at 90 volts of "B" battery are given in the accompanying table. This compilation is the result of a great number of tests made on tubes under conditions of actual use. Plate current is shown in milli-amperes, a milli-ampere being one-thousandth of an ampere.

Current of Receiving Tubes

Tube	"B" Volts	"C" Volts	Plate Current Milli-Amperes
WD-11	90	0	4.5
WD-12	90	—4½	2.5
UV-199	90	0	4.0
C-299	90	4½	2.25
UV-201	90	0	3.9
C-301	90	—4½	2.1
UV-201-A	90	0	6.0
C-301-A	90	—4½	2.0
Western Electric 216-A

This tube is licensed for use only in the Western Electric power amplifier which contains a 9-volt "C" battery. Its plate current is about 7.5 milli-amphers at 125 volts of "B" battery and 9-volt grid bias.

It will be seen that the use of a "C" battery makes striking reductions in "B" battery current. With the 201-A tube, a 4 1-2 volt "C" battery cuts theplate current to just one-third. By adding tubes to a set you multiply this result many times.

To take a fairly common instance, which places an extremely heavy drain on the "B" battery, consider a six-tube receiver, using three stages of radio frequency amplification, detector, and two stages of audio frequency. The tubes, UV-201-A throughout. Plate voltage of 90 on the amplifiers and 45 volts on the detector. No "C" battery, ero grid potential on all the amplifiers.

Each of the five amplifier tubes draws a 6 milli-amperes from the "B" battery, and the detector takes 2 milli-amperes, so that the six tubes drain 32 milli-amperes from the "B" battery.

To Reduce Plate Current

In a set such as this there are two ways of reducing the excessive plate current without sacrificing volume, distance or quality. It will usually be found that 45 volts on the radio frequency amplifier tubes will be just as effective as 90, while the current will be cut to one-quarter of its former value in these tubes. On the audio frequency amplifier tubes the voltage should not be changed, but the use of a 4 1-2 volt "C" battery will cut the "B" battery current to one-third of its former value. The "B" battery will then last about three times as long.

Sometimes the user of such a multi-tube set has recently changed from a receiver using a detector tube alone, and wonders why his "B" batteries do not last as long as they used to. The reason is, of course, that he is giving them much more work to do.

Another article on "B" battery operation will appear next week.

Looking Ahead

It's rather hard to look ahead in radio.

The recent development and present status of the new art of communication are so absoorbingly interesting and significant that one is tempted to dwell on its aspects at the moment rather than consider the future.

Yet in spite of the phenomenal strides of radio in efficiency and popular favor during 1923, the advent of the new year finds it on the threshold of even more important expansion and usefulness.

The past year has been notable both in the improvement of local and long distance service and in the record-breaking increase in the number of builders and buyers of receiving sets.

The most spectacular, though not necessarily the most significant advances, have been in long distance communication. Radio, to be sure, had spanned the Atlantic previous to last year, but only under exceptionally favorable conditions and through experimental stations operated by experts. It remained for 1923 to witness amateurs—some of them with home-made sets—to listen in on Europe, not only from the eastern seaboard of the United States but from as far west as Chicago.

1923 was a wonderful year! Thanks to radio, even the North Pole is now only just around the corner; on Christmas Day, McMillan, the explorer, up in the frigid wastes of the Arctic Circle under the eaves of the world, heard his wife's voice broadcast from United States!

In 1923 a message of the President of the United States was broadcast for the first time in history—the message of President Coolidge at the opening of Congress.

During the year Uncle Sam equipped his mail planes with radio. Columbia University in New York City began broadcasting regular courses. An enterprising commercial school set hundreds of stenographers to taking shorthand dictation from the air. The program of education and entertainment from broadcasting stations were richer and more varied than ever before.

What of 1924? No one can safely prophecy the year's increase in the number of receiving sets—any more than they can tell exactly how many new ones were put in use in 1923. But today there are not less than two million sets in use in the United States. Is there any reason why there should not be a receiving set in every home in the land—20,000,000 sets instead of the 2,000,000 today? (Incidentally, the great majority of these sets were homemade). There are already 14,500,000 telephones, 12,000,000 phonographs and over 10,000,000 automobiles. In cost and utility, radio ought to have even better chances for as widespread use.

Sets are bound to improve in 1924, even as they have in 1923. Radio-users demand not only long distance reception, but it must come in loud and clear. It is not enough merely to amplify sound; there must be amplification without distortion. The sound must be clear and true, not radio a la racket.

Circuits that are simpler as well as more effective will undoubtedly greatly increase this year. Less complicated apparatus and fewer controls—such circuits for example, as the reflex—will increase the number of radio fans who, though lacking technical knowledge of circuits, will get 100 per cent enjoyment from radio.

Further improvement of programs and broadcasting service generally is on the cards for 1924. And Uncle Sam will keep a vigilant eye on the regulation of radio and the minimizing of interference and other obstacles to the development of the best service for the greatest number.

It may safely be predicted, too, that radio users will realize increasingly that amplification is the real key to radio—to all broadcasting, whether from continent to continent or city to city—and insist as never before on amplifying transformers that amplify without distorting.

Who knows? Perhaps research will reveal even greater wonders and utilities in the phenomena of the amplifying tube and amplifying transformer during the year ahead.

LEE CO. FARM BUREAU NOTES

LEE CO. MAN HONORED

During the week of January 28 to February 2 the Farm Advisors of the state with other extension workers met for a school at the College of Agriculture. During the week the Illinois Association of Farm Advisors met in semi-annual session and elected L. S. Griffith, Farm Adviser of Lee County, Secretary of their association. E. C. Hay of Christian County was elected President, J. F. Hedgcock of Will county, Vice President and F. A. Fisher of Wabash Co., Treasurer.

There were 83 of the 93 Farm Advisers of the state in attendance at the school. The number also included 11 assistant farm advisers, and about 15 other extension workers and members of the agricultural college. The school was designed to give first-hand information on subjects of special interest and importance to the workers in agriculture in the state. The school was the first of a series that will probably be held annually according to the present plans.

The school was built around a series of ten lectures by Theodore Macklin of Madison, Wis. a well known authority on agricultural economics and co-operative markets. He pointed out that efficient marketing and profitable farming are only means to the end of worth while living on the farm.

Throughout the series of lectures he stressed the fact that the age old law of supply and demand still holds good and determines the price that the farmer gets for his products. Successful cooperative marketing aims at getting the highest price possible under given conditions and cutting marketing expenses by doing the ten main marketing services better than they are being done at present, he said.

Effective public speaking, care of the health, the psychology of extension teaching, journalism and extension teaching, visual instructions, demonstrations that are fundamental in extension teaching and organization, administration and relationships also came in for attention during the week.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE WILL DRAW FAMOUS SPEAKERS AND GREAT CROWD TO THIS CITY

State Institute meeting. He will address the convention at it ospening session, speaking on "Permanency in American Agriculture."

Dean H. W. Mumford of the University will also address the opening session of the State Institute. He is well known among Illinois farmers and will talk on the subject "World

Noted Crop Authorities

The afternoon session of the first day presents a varied interest to farmers. Professor L. F. Graber of the Wisconsin Agricultural College, willl discuss "Alfalfa Guide Posts to on "Factors in Plant Growth," and Better Times"; Dr. Chas. F. Hottes, Charles A. Ewing, of Decatur, will discuss the subject, "Farmer and Citizen."

Professor Graber is nationally known as an authority on alfalfa and other legumes. H ecomes from an alfalfa section, second to none in the country, and is probably better posted in regard to the real opportunities offered by this wonderful plant, and on its cultural needs and requirements, than any other man in the United States. Dr. Hottes is a recognized leader along the lines of plant growth investigations, and is a prominent plant physiologist with a fund of useful information about the practical growing of plants that will benefit every farmer. Mr. Ewing is a practical farmer operating one of the largest farm holdings in the State and has made a special study of economic factors involved in profitable farm management. He is an experienced business farmer and one who is a firm believer in farming as a profession and as an opportunity for service in citizenship.

Noted Livestock Speakers

Both the practical and scientific sides of profitable dairying will be given attention the second day of the Institute. The "Problems of Dairying" is the subject of W. J. Dougan, a successful and widely known dairy farmer of Wisconsin. Mr. Dougan has an interesting and important message for every Illinois farmer, whether he is keeping cows or not. To hear him is to gain something of worthwhile value, adaptable to individual conditions, which makes for greater success and satisfaction on any farm in any agricultural section.

As an experienced and trained investigator in animal nutrition, Dr. E. B. Meigs, of the Dairy Division, Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, is widely known. He has devoted years of close application to this important subject, doing research work in the leading Universities of America, Germany and England, and for eight years has been conducting his scientific investigations as a physiologist in the Federal Department of Agriculture. The work of Dr. Meigs has revealed some new and interesting facts about animal nutrition which are of great importance from the standpoint of the practical farmer and stockman, and which he will discuss and explain in detail at the State Institute. It is a subject of practical interest and one of general importance in all live stock feeding work.

Watson on Taxes

Everybody agrees that taxes are too high, but just what to do about it is quite another question and one which is always debatable. While there is a lot of talk and general dissatisfaction about taxes, there are comparatively few who know just how bad the tax situation is in Illinois. This is what John C. Watson, tax expert of the Illinois Agricultural Association, has been finding out by his investigations the last few years. He has brought to light a great many inequalities on the tax books throughout the state, and has showed them up in such a way that in many counties the farm taxes have been materially reduced. While a good start in this direction has been made, there is much more to be accomplished if farm taxes are to be placed on a right basis in comparison with other property.

In the tax hearings, which have been held over the state, Mr. Watson has given out some valuable information, but owing to the nature of a public hearing, it has necessarily been in piece-meal fashion. At the State Institute, he is going to summarize and corralate the whole situation. He will address the convention on the afternoon of the 20th, and will discuss taxation from the farmers standpoint in a complete and comprehensive way. Some new angles to the situation will be presented which everybody should hear.

Evvard and Rusk to Speak.

John M. Evvard, of the Iowa State College, is one of the headliners on the State Institute program at Dixon Feb. 21st. He will speak on the subject, "Bringing Home the Bacon," and has a real message for every farmer who breeds, grows or fattens hogs. Prof. Evvard is classed by many authorities as the foremost animal experimentalist in America today, as regards economy, efficiency and profit in growing and feeding swine. As head of the experimental work in this line at Ames, Evvard developed, named and exploited the Iowa idea of the cafeteria, or free-choice, plan of hog feeding, and by demonstrating its economy and practicability has practically revolutionized the hog producing industry of America.

Prof. Evvard is the sort of investigator who tackles and works out the practical problems involved in animal care and feeding. He has discovered things about the hog, his habits, likes and dislikes, which nobody knew before, and has made practical application of this knowledge in formulating ethods for the farmer which not only make more pork but do it in a shorter time and at less expense. No one has a greater fund of practical and helpful information on swine production than Prof. Evvard, and here is a chance for Illinois farmers to meet and hear him. He plans to come to Dixon early and will be at the convention a couple of days.

Results of the experiments on swine type at the University of Illinois will be presented and discussed by Prof. H. P. Rusk. He is widely known among live stock men and has a large following among the farmers in Illinotis. His Dixon address will present the last word on the type of swine best suited to make the most net profit on corn belt farms. No swine feeder or breeder can afford to miss this feature of the State IInstitute program.

Taft on "Beauties of Illinois"

Lorado Taft, famous American sculptor and popular lecturer and writer on sculpture and are subjects will be one of the evening speakers at the State Institute. He will speak on "The Beauties of Illinois," and will present some of the art and nature wonders of the State from the standpoint of the trained artist. His lecture will call attention to many of the natural beauty spots of Illinois and emyhasize their artistic value which the general public so often fails to appreciate.

Mr. Taft is one of the great sculptors of this day and has long been a popular favorite on the Chautauqua platform. He is an easy and fluent speaker, full of spontaneity, alive with humor, interesting his audiences as he carries them through an evening of the highest educational value. It has been said that he is the greatest educative personality in the Central West today, and has done more to inspire a knowledge of art and love of the beautiful in sculpture, painting and nature study than any other man of his age in America.

Dr. Waters a Headliner

Another headliner at the evening sessions is Dr. H. J. Waters, Managing Editor of the Weekly Kansas City Star, and formerly Dean of the Missouri Agricultural College, and President of the Kansas College of Agriculture, serving in each of these prominent positions for a number of years. He is also natoinally known for his coispicuous service to Agriculture as a member of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture, of the State Council of Defense and Federal Food Administration, and as Commissioner of the United States and Philippine governments to report on the agricultural and educational developments of the Islands.

Dr. Waters is recognized as an authority on agriculture and farming conditions, not alone in America, but throughout the world, and is a man of keen and discriminative foresight and vision. He will speak at Dixon on the "Problems of Somorrow," and his address will be one of the most important and significant public discussions ever heard in Illinois. It will be a treat of unusual interest and value to all.

James R. Howard Will Talk

No farmer or agricultural leader in America is better and more favorably known among farmers and business men throughout the country than James R. Howard, who for three years so successfully directed the work of the American Farm Bureau Federation as its president. The distinguished service which he rendered to American agriculture as National head of the first effective country-wide organization of farmers is universally recognized and commended. Under his efficient leadership the organization became a power for good along all lines of its varied activities in behalf of a more productive and profitable agriculture. Drafted from the farm for this job, he sacrificed much, and is preparing to return to his Iowa farm home to again give personal attention to his farming business, but as a private in the ranks his unerring foresight and judgment will still be sought by wise leaders.

Mr. Howard will address the State Institute on the afternoon of February 21. His subject is "The Swinging Pedulum," and will include a discussion of present rural conditions, co-operative marketing, immigration and other big questions now before the public. No farmer knows farming and farmers better, and none have lead them better than Jim Howard. He has a vital message of particular importance to Ilinois, and one which every farmer should make a real effort to hear.

BRITAIN'S H. C. OF L.

London—The cost of living in Great Britain has increased 77 per cent since July 1, 1914, according to the latest statistics by the Ministry of Labor. But there's a little ray of sunshine, after all. It's 1 per cent less than it was a year ago.

Many Illinois People Praise Tanlac Highly

One of the outstanding features of the success of TANLAC, the World's Greatest Tonic, is the number of persons who have voluntarily testified in its favor. Over 100,000 persons have publicly stated that TANLAC has helped them overcome stomach trouble, nervousness, palpitation, heartburn, sleeplessness, loss of weight and appetite, and other ailments which have their origin in a weakened stomach. TANLAC sooths and builds up the stomach and stimulates the appetite, thus enabling the system to be built up as Nature intended it should be.

Hundreds of persons in Illinois have taken TANLAC and have placed their approval on the tonic by sending the company their statement. Here are a few extracts from some of these statements:

Mrs. William Bell, 415 E. St. Paul St., Spring Valley: "The way I improved by taking Tanlac was amazing. Almost before I knew it I was eating heartily, entirely free from indigestion. Now I'm never nervous, sleep fine and am so much better in every way that I feel like myself again. Tanlac is grand, because it ended my stomach trouble entirely and made living a pleasure to me."

Henry Getz, well-known farmer, R. F. D. No. 5, Peoria: "I had rheumatism for five years and thought my end was near and at the time I got Tanlac I couldn't even stay on my feet long enough to see that the work was done right, but now I can load hay with the best of the hands. Tanlac in a household word at my house."

Mrs. Irene Grabit, 936 Edmonds Ave., Springfield: "I suffered terribly from stomach trouble, but since taking Tanlac my indigestion is gone, I eat anything I want without a minute of pain or distress, and I've gained ten pounds in weight. I sleep well every night, and am so well and strong, my housework is easy. Tanlac is certainly wonderful."

Mrs. S. J. Bigelow, 1146 Garden St., Peoria: "Five bottles of Tanlac took me from my sick bed and made me healthy and happy after six years of the worst kind of stomach trouble."

Miss Elizabeth M. Clay, 703 Sheridan St., Danville: "I had stomach trouble for five years so bad I could hardly eat anything and for weeks at a time I could scarcely retain a mouthful of food, but I'm just as well and happy now as I was when a girl of sixteen and I wouldn't take all the money in the world for the good Tanlac has done me."

A. J. James, Peoria Heights: "My stomach was in such a fix for four years I was always weak and rundown. Everything I ate kept me in agony for hour after and my entire system was out of order, but Tanlac seemed like it was made especially for my case and today I feel like a new man entirely. I gained eleven pounds in weight and haven't an ailment of any kind."

J. B. Stone, 915 West North St., Clinton: "Almost every bite of food I ate in the past twelve years hurt me and nothing did me any good until I got Tanlac, but it certainly did fix me up. The indigestion disappeared and now I feel better than I have in years. A thousand dollars wouldn't buy the good Tanlac has done me."

THIS PRESCRIPTION FOR KIDNEYS

No Drugs—Just Roots and Herbs

Five years ago Dr. Carey said, "When backache comes get after your kidneys—and don't waste any time." "Right at the start, go to your druggist and ask for Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777; take it as directed until backache ceases and your eyes are clear and bright."

For more than 40 years Dr. Carey specialized in diseases of the kidney and bladder, and when, in the height of his remarkably busy life, he decided to dispense his most effective kidney and bladder prescription through the better druggists, he helped thousands who could not afford to go to him for treatment.

Thousands of unobservant people have kidney ailments and never know it until too late. High colored urine, getting up in the night and puffy eyes tell the story.

If you even suspect—start today with Dr. Carey's Marshroot Prescription No. 777. It will drive the poisons from your kidneys and your druggist knows all about it.

Public Drug & Book Co. dispenses lots of it. It comes both in liquid and tablet form. It will help you as it has a host of others. If it should not, if you aren't glad in one week's time that you bought it, money gladly returned. Price, $1.50 and well worth it.—Adv.

Oakwood Memorial Mausoleum

As the years roll on, how often does the question come to mind: "What am I leaving undone?" How many fathers and mothers who have left estates—some large, some small, sleep today beneath unmarked graves while thoughtless children waste the savings which represent the honest toil of neglected memory of loving parents.

Think that by the Better Way the opportunity is for the first time offered that you may provide for yourself and those whom you love assurance of a resting place in the beautiful Oakwood Memorial, where in surroundings of peace, comfort, beauty and shelter may rest the remains of those whose toil has gained the right to a well marked resting place and the continued care of the fund, the income from which forever maintains it.

The purchase price covers all but funeral expenses—no taxes, no assessments, no further payment. Delay in choice of space for the final resting place causes painful confusion at the time when one is least prepared. Mark your choice of space in Oakwood Memorial NOW and avoid the added suffering at the time of death.
